LOUISVILLE, Ky. — It was a historic moment Nov. 8-9 when the 4-H Dairy Bowl Quiz Team from Virginia won the national championship for the first time in contest history.

The 21-team competition was conducted at the 2002 North American International Livestock Exposition Invitational 4-H Dairy Quiz Bowl.

Coach Dave Winston, extension dairy scientist, 4-H youth, from Virginia Tech was pleased with his team's performance and proud of its hard work.

"I knew this was a strong team before we went out there," said Winston, who was coaching his ninth team. "You wonder about what kind of questions you will be asked, but they were very well prepared.

"It was a nice accomplishment for the Dairy Bowl program," the coach said with satisfaction. On Jan. 22, at the State Dairymen's Convention in Staunton, he said the youths will be recognized again.

En route to the victory Virginia had seven wins and one loss in the double-elimination tournament. The wins were against Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, New York (twice), Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

The solitary loss came against Illinois. "It was a close match. We have a good rivalry," said Winston, a longtime friend of his opponent. Winston, however, was unable to recall the particular question which caused the upset.

Team members were helped by knowing each of their talents. The team consisted of Sarah Clemons and Josh Clemons, members of the Madison 4-H Dairy Club, and Brian House and Sarah Leonard, members of the Fauquier-Prince William 4-H Dairy Club.

In addition to their having studied hard in preparation for the challenge, Winston said it was their acquaintance with one another that created a team chemistry.

WELLERSBURG (Somerset Co.) — For four generations, the Korns family of Southampton Township has farmed full time off Palo Alto Road near Wellersburg. Most recently, a father-son team has endeavored to produce high quality beef calves for 4-H and FFA students.

Dave Korns and his wife Becky (Carpenter), their son Christopher and his wife Lisa (Mowery), and their daughter Samantha take on the daily responsibility of a beef farm with about 150 brood cows, Angus-based, and five bulls, Angus and Angus-Maine Anjou.

Dave, left, and Becky Korns have been farming ever since they got married in 1969. Here, they are pictured with their son, Chris, standing, and his daughter Samantha Grace, 4. Chris recently returned from the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky., where he placed second in his class.

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "I'll never tell anybody that you must trade futures — but what I will tell you is that you must understand it," said Jonah Bowles, ag risk management coordinator, Virginia Farm Bureau Federation.

Bowles spoke to a group of almost 20 producers and beef industry representatives at a workshop conducted Monday at Yoder's Restaurant, New Holland.

Bowles, a former stock broker and commodity broker with experience in futures, emphasized that understanding futures is important. Futures markets determine the price of cattle and LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The insights and humor of a nationally known ag journalist, three new Century Farm family recipients, and presentation of the 14th George C. Delp Award highlighted the Lancaster Ag Chamber Banquet at Willow Valley Monday evening.

About 750 people from the ag community turned out for the 26th annual event. Elliot Abrams of AccuWeather was master of ceremonies.

Brent Landis, ag services coordinator, praised the group for their loyal support of agriculture in attending the "largest ag banquet in Pennsylvania," even in the face of hard challenges such as this year's drought and adverse market conditions.

Such large attendance helps show that "the vital role ag plays in our community should never be underestimated," Landis said.

Glenn Shirk, recently retired Lancaster County dairy agent,

CATTLE· Compared to Thursday, lean slaughter cows sold steady to weak; with the high and low dressing lean supply a full 1.00 lower. Breaking and Boning cows sold .50-1 00 lower The cow run included some very nice fleshy cows, and bidding was fairly active, however, buyer attendance was light. Losses in the lean cow category could have been worse as buyers indicated that the heavy runs are starting to outweigh their chain speeds Slaughter bulls sold firm to 3 00 higher Slaughter cows made up nearly 42 percent of the run

New Holland Hog Auction

NEW HOLLAND, PA
November 25, 2002
Report Supplied By Auction

Receipts: 699 Last Week: 690 Last Year: 691. Compared to last Monday, barrows and gilts sold mostly steady; with a few sales trending with a firmer undertone. Bidding was only moderate early, fluctuating throughout the sale as buyers filled their needs. The quality of the run was about average, although when a fancy hog entered the ring bidding increased; which made it apparent buyers are still willing to procure the straight hogs at a premium. However, this is not to say that quality was the deciding factor, as several of the fleshier hogs sold at nearly the same prices as the lean supply. The Western terminal markets are trading hogs from 27.00-29.00 to begin the week; therefore, the local trade is pretty much in line with the rest of the world.

PERCENT LEAN WEIGHT PRICE 49-54 220-270 lbs 28.00-30.25, 45-50 235-285 lbs 27.25-29.75, 40-45 230-270 lbs 26.00-28.50, 280-370 lbs 25.25-27.25, 390-490 lbs 25.00-26.50. SOWS: Sows sold fully 2.00-3.00 higher as bidding was very active as buyers filled their pre-holiday needs.

U.S. 1-3 400-450 lbs 22.00-25.00, 500-550 lbs 24.00-27.00, over 550 lbs 26.00-29.10

BOARS: Boars continue to hold fully steady. 300-700 lbs 7.00-8.00.

North Atlantic Eggs

Atlanta, Georgia
Report Supplied by USDA
Nov. 27, 2002

In Philadelphia, prices were unchanged to two cents lower on mediums and unchanged on the larger sizes. In Boston and New England, prices remained unchanged. The market tone ranged steady to barely steady. Demand into all channels was moderate to good, best into Thanksgiving feature activity. Supplies were adequate to available on white eggs, however brown eggs were reported as tight. Breaking stock offerings were short to fully adequate for the light to good demand. Offerings of light type hens were sufficient for slaughter requirements.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying activity remained very light and selective as dealers attempted to enter Thanksgiving with floor stocks in a very tight balance. Offerings of breast items were at least adequate for current needs. Dark meat cuts were fully sufficient. Wings were available. Retail and distributive movement was seasonally sluggish. Trade sentiment continued cautious. The market tone was about steady.

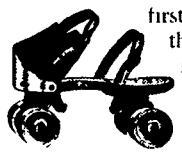
The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

DECEMBER 2–8, 2002

NEW MOON, DEC. 4

DECEMBER IS FOR PLAYING

Sometimes the busy holiday season has us scurrying around so fast that we forget to stop and play But consider December's history. Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol was first published in December 1843 The founder of Parker Brothers, George S. Parker, was born in December 1867 During this month in 1851, the first YMCA was opened. This was also the month that the first ball-bearing roller skates were patented in 1884 In December, the first table-tennis tournament was played in 1901 and Monopoly debuted in 1935. So light a fire, get out your books, board games, and Ping-Pong paddles, and take time to play



Play consists of whatever a body is not obliged to do.

–Mark Twain American writer (1835–1910) from The Adventures of Tom Sawyer

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ To reduce dryer use (and cost), run towels through an additional spin cycle in the washing machine first.

WINTER FRUIT SALAD

2 oranges, peeled and seeded
1 grapefruit, peeled and seeded
2 apples, cored and diced
1/2 pound seedless red grapes
2 small bananas, sliced
1 pint strawberries, hulled and sliced
2 kiwifruits, peeled and sliced
1/4 cup honey
2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
2 tablespoons freshly squeezed orange juice

Slice oranges into rounds, and break grapefruit into sections. Place all fruit in a large glass bowl Mix honey with citrus juices and pour over fruit Chill before serving

Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If on the trees the leaves still hold, the coming winter will be cold.

When cattle stay in close groups, a storm is coming.

The perfect gift! The all new and improved 2003 Old Farmer's Almanac is loaded with wit, wisdom, and weather To order or subscribe, call 800-895-9265, ext 220, or visit our Web site www.almanac.com/go/WUF0212

OPINION

Something To Celebrate: National Farm-City Week

President George Bush reminded us in a recent proclamation that Nov. 22-Nov. 28 was National Farm City Week 2002, reflecting on the fact that "agriculture has always been a cornerstone of our nation's way of life."

In the proclamation, Bush noted that "our dedicated farmers and ranchers improve our well-being by working to ensure a healthy and abundant agricultural supply."

Bush looks at the cooperative network, the way farmers and non-farmers cooperate in this compact, this covenant, that makes this nation the greatest ever.

Farming, bush noted, was America's first industry. This industry provides us with the essentials of life.

Bush signed the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 to support workers in the agricultural industry and to strengthen the farm economy. This act stretches opportunities and allows farmers to compete in the international marketplace.

In this week's Farm Shelf on page A28, a book looks at the realities of that national competitiveness. Roger Simmermaker's HOW AMERICANS CAN BUY AMERICAN examines these lofty ideals of what free trade and an open border trade policy has meant to the U.S. — ideals that have been dashed against the rocks far too many times.

Why take one day to celebrate Thanksgiving? Why only one day to recognize mom, for that matter? Why not every day? Why shouldn't every day be a Farm-City day?

And why shouldn't a president dedicate himself fully, day by day, to making international trade fair and responsible for those farm families who buy products?

To Explore Business Planning Options For Your Farm

"Tilling the Soil of Opportunity" is a business planning class for farmers who want to explore different production options on their farm. The series of meetings is aimed at teaching small to mid-scale farmers and agricultural professionals the necessary business skills to make decisions that affect their current businesses, or to start a new enterprise.

The course is taught in 12 three-hour sessions, during which farmers develop mission and goals, marketing strategies, financial statements, and other critical components of a comprehensive business plan. Each class session combines lecture, guest speakers, and worksheets to provide the information necessary to complete a chapter of the farm business plan.

People involved in farming and related businesses looking to "fine-tune" their current enterprises, as well as beginning farmers considering the business possibilities, are eligible to sign up for the classes that will begin soon in Lancaster and Gettysburg. The Lancaster class will meet on Monday evenings, Dec. 2 through March 17 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The Gettysburg class will meet Wednesday mornings, Jan. 8 through April 9 at the Adams County Agricultural Center.

Contact Winifred McGee, (717) 270-4391 or Lynn Kime, (717) 334-6271, for additional information or to receive a copy of the class registration form. It is still possible to enroll in the Lancaster class. There is a cost of $150 for the complete program.

To Learn How White-Tailed Deer Disperse

When scientists from Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and the Pennsylvania Game Commission began tracking young, male white-tailed deer last winter to learn how they disperse, the researchers weren't sure what to expect.

For years it was believed that deer in Pennsylvania don't move around much. But wildlife experts knew that for genetic reasons, deer populations should minimize inbreeding, so it made sense that the males would leave the area where they were born. Now, almost a year into the study, a fascinating picture of young buck dispersal is emerging.

"Movement of young bucks is certainly not related to quality of habitat of a deer's home range," said Duane Diefenbach, adjunct assistant professor of wildlife resources with the Pennsylvania Cooperative Fish and Wildlife Research Unit, a joint effort of Penn State, the Game Commission, the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission, and the U.S. Geologic Survey. "We see young bucks leaving natal home ranges with good habitat and traveling to other areas of good habitat. It's almost like the doe gives them the message that it is time to go."

The joint three-year study — intended to be the most extensive radio-telemetry study of male deer dispersal, survival, and the effects of antler restrictions for hunting ever attempted in the U.S. — started last December when 141 male deer were captured in Armstrong and Centre counties. Those deer — caught using helicopters, drop nets, walk-in traps, and tranquilizer dart guns — were radio-collared and released unharmed. Researchers have been tracking their movements ever since.

The two sites offer dramatically different landscapes, Long points out, and that probably accounts for a difference in dispersal rates of young bucks. "At the Armstrong County site near Kittanning, which is mostly rolling hills with patches of forest and open agricultural areas often divided by roads, 44 percent of bucks that were collared left their mothers in the spring. On average they went about seven miles.

"At the Centre County site, which is less fragmented and features continuous forested ridges, 24 percent of young bucks dispersed in the spring," said Long. "They didn't move as far on average about five miles. The maximum dispersal distance we have seen in Centre County was 13 and a half miles."

Early information yielded by the research dispels some myths about Pennsylvania deer, Long noted. "From a management perspective, we know that we can't manage deer in a small area," he said. "There is a lot of interchange between animals and areas. Landowners should realize that there is a good chance that the bucks they see on their property probably weren't born there. There is a lot more interchange than people were expecting."

This information likely will be of great interest to hunters, Long speculates. "There have been suggestions that landowners could introduce big-racked bucks to pass on their genes to offspring males that will have bigger racks," he said. "But we are seeing now that the young male deer probably won't stay in the area. They more likely are producing bucks for landowners in the next valley, or even the next county."

Moreover, Gary Alt, deer management section supervisor for the Game Commission, points out that Pennsylvania deer don't need better genes, they just need to live a year longer. "We know from our research that two-and-a-half-year-old Pennsylvania bucks sport a seven- or eight-point rack with an outside spread of 15 inches," he said.

The Pennsylvania Game Commission's Website, http://www.pgc.state.pa.us, is keeping a running journal of the study. For more information, click on "Wildlife," then "Deer in Pennsylvania," and then "Antlered Deer Study."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DON'T BE AFRAID

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:5-66.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 40:3-11.

For Zechariah, one of Israel's 20,000 priests who ministered in the Jerusalem Temple, it was like winning the lottery. There were 20 divisions of priests and they alternated responsibility for conducting the morning and evening sacrifices for the whole nation.

Within each division, the person presiding over these rituals was decided by the drawing of lots. Many priests might live a whole lifetime without ever gaining the privilege of offering the temple sacrifice. Those who did counted it the greatest of their lives.

Finally, it was his division's turn and the lot fell on him. What joy he must have felt. His whole priestly life had been focused on this day. Then, at last, after so many years, that day arrived. But Zechariah was unprepared for what he would experience.

Sometime after he uttered the traditional invocation— "May the God of mercy enter the sanctuary and be pleased to accept the sacrifice of his people" — Zechariah saw something he had not expected: "... there appeared to him an angel of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of incense. And Zechariah was troubled when he saw him, and fear fell upon him" (1:11,12).

No Child Was Given

Isn't that a bit strange? Zechariah was a priest and both he and his wife, Elizabeth, were "righteous before God." So why should he, a man dedicated to serving in the spiritual realm of life, be "troubled" and afraid at the appearance of one of God's messengers?

Why would he invoke the presence of the Lord and then be struck with fear when God revealed his presence? It was not because he did not believe in God, but that he did not believe that God believed in him. For so many years he and Elizabeth prayed for a child and, despite his rank and their righteousness, no child was given.

Childlessness in a marriage was regarded as a sign of God's disfavor. It was even a valid ground for divorce. At the very least, it was a public embarrassment. Zechariah believed that God answered prayers, but he no longer expected God to answer his prayers! The embarrassment was of greater consequence than his trust in God's grace.

What about us? We believe in a God who does wondrous things in response to prayer, but not to us. Maybe we think we're not good enough (and we're not), don't have enough faith, don't know how to pray, or that this is simply our fate or God's will. So we go through the motions as Zechariah did and we are equally unprepared when at last God sends a message that says, in effect, to us: "Do not be afraid ... for your prayer is heard ..." We need to learn with Zechariah that God not only hears prayer, but he hears our prayer.

A 'Holy Fear'

The late Walter Russell Bowie discerns in the nativity narratives of Luke a pattern of fear. When the angel appeared to Zechariah, "fear fell on him." When Gabriel came to Mary in Nazareth, she was "greatly troubled." When the shepherds in the fields of Bethlehem experienced the angelic chorus, "they were filled with fear."

And the message of the angels in each case was directed at this holy fear. "Do not be afraid," the angel said to Zechariah. "Do not be afraid," Gabriel said to Mary. And to the shepherds abiding in their fields, the angels proclaimed, "Be not afraid."

So there are two kinds of fear that Luke lifts up for us. There is the fear that keeps me from believing that God will respond to my prayers. That kind of fear means that we do not really trust God to come, care, and provide for us. We lack faith because we believe the promises of God are not valid for us. Nothing is more paralyzing than that craven fear.

But there is another kind of fear, a holy fear that comes as a sudden recognition of the reality of God in my life. This is a sense of overwhelming awe and wonder that says to us, if we listen with any attentiveness, "Do not be afraid."

Cumberland County Dairy Herd Improvement Program Presents Awards

HUNTSDALE (Cumberland Co.) — The 83rd annual meeting of the Cumberland County Dairy Herd Improvement program was recently conducted at the Penn Township Firehall.

The herd of Brymesser Farms, Boiling Springs, was recognized for its production of milk and protein. The Brymesser Farms' 240 registered and grade Holstein cows produced an average of 27,586 pounds of milk and 838 pounds of protein. Each one of their cows produced an average of more than 13 tons of milk.

Bry-Nel Sailor Ila, a registered Holstein in the Brymesser herd, had the high milk and protein 305-day record. She produced 44,969 pounds of milk and 1,302 pounds of protein.

Jet-Rae Farm of Shippensburg was honored for having the lowest somatic cell count (SCC) yearly average in the county. Nealand Farms, Newville, received second place honors.

Rosettes were presented to two county families for having more than 750 pounds of protein per cow in their herds. Shown here are, from left, Sheldon and Michael Brymesser, Boiling Springs, representing their 240 cows that averaged 27,586 pounds of milk and 838 pounds of protein. Steve and Oscar Nealy represent Nealand Farms, Newville, whose 280 cows averaged 26,509 pounds of milk and 759 pounds of protein.

Brymesser Farms, Boiling Springs, represented by Sheldon, Maryann, and Michael, were recognized recently for having the Cumberland County high herd of 240 cows producing 27,586 pounds of milk and 838 pounds of protein. They also had the high cow in milk and protein production for the year. Bry-Nell Sailor Ila produced 44,969 pounds of milk and 1,302 pounds of protein in her last 305-day record. Brymesser Farms was also honored for having both the high 2-year-old records in milk and protein.

From left, Brymesser Farms, Boiling Springs, represented by Sheldon and Maryann Brymesser were recognized for having Cumberland County high herd, high cow in milk and protein, and high 2-year-old cows in milk and protein. Jet Rae Farms, Shippensburg, represented by Jean and Ray Thrush, were recognized for having the lowest somatic cell count (SCC) yearly average.

Rounding out the top five were Hidden View Farm, Newville; Leroy Showaker and Son, Newville; and Dave and Doug Lehman, Carlisle.

Brymesser Farms were honored for having both the high 2-year-old in protein and the high 2-year-old in milk. The high 2-year-old in protein was a registered Holstein Bry-Nel Amos 1219, producing 973 pounds of protein. The high 2-year-old in milk was Bry-Nel Amos 1201, with 30,909 pounds of milk.

The herd of Floral Rose Farm, Newburg was recognized at the 83rd annual meeting for placing first in the Cumberland County Herd Management Awards Program. The Floral Rose Farm herd earned a total score of 100 points. Herds earned points because they excel in several herd management areas such as increase in milk, fat, and protein production; sustained production for milk, fat, and protein over last year and two years ago; somatic cell count improvement; days open; number of services per pregnancy; and age at first calving.

Brymesser Farms, Boiling Springs, placed second with a score of 98. Nealand Farms, Newville, and Lee Hoover Jr., Boiling Springs, tied for third with a score of 96. Robee Acres placed fifth with a score of 95.

Jet-Rae Farms of Shippensburg was honored for having the lowest somatic cell count (SCC) yearly average in the county. Jean and Ray Thrush are shown with the award received at the annual banquet.

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — Forty 4-H members exhibited a total of 120 dairy animals from seven breeds at the recent Chester County 4-H Dairy Roundup.

Breed champions were shown by the following exhibitors:

- Ayrshire: Hannah Wentworth, Quarryville;
- Brown Swiss: Becky Baily, West Chester;
- Guernsey: Kevin Sollenberger, Spring City;
- Jersey: Pat Jenkins, Toughkenamon;
- Holstein: Randy Miller, Chester Springs;
- Lineback: Mike Hicks, Unionville; and
- Red & White: Randy Miller; Chester Springs.

Pat Jenkins' champion Jersey, 5-year-old CLV Schlitz Symphony, was named supreme champion.

Bill and Mark Schnebly of Clear Springs, Md., judged the show.

Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association Adds To Staff

PHILADELPHIA — Kara Tussey and Marcea Huemer recently joined the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association staff.

In her new position, Kara Tussey will be a marketing specialist, creating and implementing milk vending programs in Mid-Atlantic schools and businesses, as well as a milk tanker decal installation program.

Tussey grew up on a dairy farm in Huntingdon County. She graduated in 1996 from Penn State with a bachelor's degree in dairy and animal science and a minor in agricultural communications.

Before joining the Mid-Atlantic staff, Tussey worked for Morgan & Myers, an Iowa public relations firm, as a communications associate. Prior to that, she worked for Sire Power, Inc. and the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association.

"We are pleased to have Kara join our staff," said Patty Purcell, director of advertising and retail promotions. "She will play a key role in the vending and marketing of our product."

Marcea Huemer has joined the nutrition education and marketing team and will focus on school marketing programs, including the Expanding Breakfast and Mealtime Sampler programs. She will also serve as the New Jersey liaison for Action for Healthy Kids.

Huemer, from southern New Jersey, earned a bachelor's degree in clinical dietetics from Syracuse University in 1991 and master's degree in physiology from the University of Delaware in 1995. Previous work experience includes clinical nutrition and cardiac rehabilitation and wellness programming/ community marketing.

"We are really excited to have Marcea on board," said Ellen Fuller, director of nutrition education and marketing. "She is a great addition to our nutrition education team."

MARKET REPORTS LOOK BLEAK

- Cow numbers higher.
- Butter and cheese stocks high.
- Futures prices look better.

The market news does not look favorable to milk prices, at least not for the rest of the year. The milk production report shows year-ago cow numbers in U.S. dairy herds are on the rise. And the cold storage report indicates cheese and butter stocks are well ahead of year-ago levels. More milk, more cheese, more butter, and lower milk prices!

First, the milk production report. October milk production was up just 2.3 percent over a year ago. This rate of growth is lower than in previous months, which is a good sign. But a closer look reveals a disturbing fact: cow numbers increased 8,000 head above the previous month. The market was expecting cow numbers to continue a downward trend that started in September. It is not a good idea to disappoint the market.

Nine of 20 states in USDA's list of top dairy states increased cow numbers in October 2002 over October 2001. Most of those states are in the West. But some are from the Midwest and East: New York, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, and Virginia.

The cold storage report indicated that both butter and cheese inventories in October were well ahead of year-ago levels. Butter stocks, at 164.4 million pounds, are 63 percent higher than a year ago. American cheese stocks were at 505.5 million pounds, about 9 percent ahead of a year ago. Total cheese inventories at the end of October were ahead 8 percent relative to a year ago. These stocks, however, don't yet reflect the inventory drawdown that could be expected from the holiday season. So there is still hope!

USDA announced the Class I base milk price for December. It's $10.52 per CWT, down 8 cents per CWT from last month. That implies a Boston Class I price of $13.77 per CWT and therefore a December 2002 MILC payment rate of $1.43 per CWT. Thus, a higher MILC payment rate will help offset lower market prices.

This bad news may be short-lived. The futures markets are showing that Class III prices will rise above $10 per CWT starting in January and peak at a robust $13.16 per CWT in September 2003. One can interpret this to mean that the market is expecting the milk supply to slow down and demand to pick up.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER Summary for week ending Nov. 22, 2002. Total Receipts: 443,100, last week 493,200. Direct: 79,700, last week 76,600. Video/Internet: 2,700 head, last week 26,600. Auction Receipts: 360,700; last week 390,000. This week's reported auction volume included 28 percent over 600 lbs and 43 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, a tight supply of yearling steers and heifers sold firm to 3.00 higher. Calf offerings were large again this week and, despite the big runs, prices were 1.00-4.00 higher with instances of as much as 10.00 higher. The full advancement on calf prices was realized in areas that are popular markets for farmer feeders and backgrounders that winter calves on something other than wheat. These big gains were noticed from as far south as Arkansas, up through Missouri and Iowa, and across through Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana. Winter wheat regions of Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas enjoyed continued good demand, but prices have started to level off as wheat pastures are mostly stocked and growing yards have their hands full.

The Southeast markets were also only slightly higher as quality is tapering off and the bulk of the front-end calves have already been sold. But make no mistake! Feeder and stocker cattle markets were on fire this week and demand is about as good as it gets. Last week's bullish cattle-on-feed report and a quickly rising fed cattle market added fuel to the flames. After breaking 70.00 last week, feedlots started selling their showlists 1.00 higher on Wednesday and then grabbed another dollar on Friday to end the week 1.00-2.00 higher on live sales and 3.00-4.00 higher in the meat at mostly 112.00. Cattle feeders have started writing their closeouts with black ink, for a change, and attitudes are optimistic for this bullish run to continue. Backgrounders are now whistling as they ride through their wheat cattle and cattle feeders are singing to the radio while driving down feed alleys, instead of nervously listening for market updates. Anywhere cattle people congregate, the smiling faces are a reminder that it has been a long time since the future has looked so bright. Not even a nationwide day devoted to the turkey can slow this bullet, as the demand for beef remains strong and cut-out values rose 6.00-7.00 this week.

National Slaughter Cattle Weekly Review

Oklahoma City, Okla.
Report Supplied By USDA

National Slaughter Cattle Summary - Week Ending Nov 22, 2002: Slaughter steers and heifers rose another dollar this week and dressed sales were 2.50-3.00 higher. Packer demand good as beef prices made strong advances this week. The bulls seem to be in the feeders corner as show lists have become lighter and carcass weights are coming down. USDA's boxed beef cut-out values Friday at noon averaged 118.02 up 7.02 from last Friday. Sales of slaughter cattle on a national basis for negotiated cash trades totaled 148,100 through Friday at 10:00 a.m.; last week's full count was 236,700.

STEERS AND HEIFERS: Midwest Direct Markets: Live Basis: 35-80% Choice, 900-1400 lbs 70.00-71.50, avg. 71.00. Dressed Basis: 35-80% Choice, 550-950 lbs 111.00-112.00, wtd avg 111.78. High Plains Direct Markets: Live Basis: 35-65% Choice, 900-1400 lbs 70.00-71.50, avg 71.00.

SLAUGHTER COWS AND BULLS (Average Yielding): Slaughter cows 1.00-3.00 higher. Slaughter bulls steady to 2.00 higher. Demand improved for cows this week as lighter carcass weights has produced less tonnage of meat. USDA's Cutter cow carcass cut-out value closed Thursday at 81.75 up 3.60 from last Friday.

COWS: Breakers 75-80% Lean 1000-1600 lbs: Colorado 32.00-35.50; Oklahoma 33.00-36.00; Alabama 31.50-34.50. Boners 80-85% Lean 900-1500 lbs: Colorado 32.00-35.00; Oklahoma 34.00-37.00; Alabama 32.50-35.50. Lean 85-90% Lean 850-1300 lbs: Colorado 29.50-32.00; Oklahoma 33.50-35.50; Alabama 28.00-31.00.

BULLS 88-92% Lean 1500-2200 lbs: Colorado 44.00-47.50; Oklahoma 43.00-46.50; Alabama 43.00-46.00.

NOTE: Slaughter cow and bull prices reflect Tuesday markets.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.3553-1.4745. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.3553-1.4745 mostly 1.3661-1.3878.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .9850-1.0300; Class III - spot prices - .8700-.9400.

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This week - 55, Out 0; last week - In 132, Out 0; last year - In 0, Out 52. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week - In 0, Out 0; last week - In 0, Out 0; last year - In 14, Out 0.

The base price for Class I milk for December 2002 is $10.52 per cwt., down $0.08 from November. A Class I differential specific to each pricing point (county) is added to the base price to determine the applicable Class I price. The Class II skim milk price for December is $7.69, up one cent from November.

Milk production is fairly steady in most of the northern areas, but starting to show increases in parts of the Southeast and most of Florida. Fluid milk supplies are more than ample and more milk is being diverted to manufacturing this week. Not only is Thanksgiving giving a boost to milk sales, but the threat of snow in some urban areas is causing a little bout of panic buying. Bottled milk sales at retail outlets have been very strong since late last week, but school lunch needs came to a halt after Tuesday. Most bottlers will be down on Thursday, but should be back up on Friday. Florida handlers continue to bring in a little milk, but the need for outside milk is easing rather quickly.

Surplus milk volumes are heavy and manufacturing plants are gearing up for heavy operations over the coming weekend. Balancing plants in the Southeast are open and easily handling the extra milk. In the Northeast, some ice cream plants are down this week and a few cheese plants are on reduced schedules. This is pushing more milk and cream into butter/powder plants.

The condensed skim market is little changed, but some plants are clearing their solids as condensed rather than start up their dryers.

The fluid cream market is weak and offerings are increasing in most all areas of the region. Spot prices are generally higher since the CME price increased rather sharply last week. However, with increasing volumes to be cleared, lower multiples are offsetting some of the gain in the butter price. Demand for Class II cream is very slow now that production of holiday related items has slowed.

Volumes of excess cream are heavy and quite a few loads did clear to Midwestern butter producers at multiples below 120, f.o.b. Ice cream output is slow as many operations are closed for the whole week. Cream cheese output is about steady as some producers take advantage of the heavier supply and lower multiples. Churning activity is increasing as producers are being inundated with cream offers and butter output is expected to be heavy through early next week.

Weekly Meat Production Under Federal Inspection

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 22 – (USDA-NASS) – Total red meat production under federal inspection for the week ending Saturday, Nov. 23, was estimated at 927.2 million lbs., according to the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. This was 2.5% higher than a week ago and 14.2% higher than a year ago. Cumulative meat production for the year to date was 3.4% higher compared to the previous year.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat traded mixed after higher bids Monday. Continued lack of fresh export news added weakness. However, a slight drop in winter wheat crop ratings limited losses. Corn bids were slightly lower for the second day with harvest progress showing 97 percent complete. Soybean bids firmed up today due to fund buying on the Board and stronger soy oil trade. Very good overnight export sales for soybeans lent strength. Wheat mixed, 9 cents lower to 8 cents higher. Corn steady to 2 cents lower. Sorghum steady. Soybeans 1 cent higher.

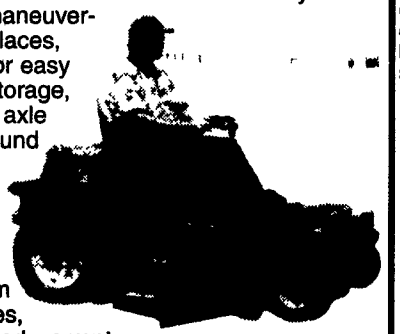
Now Everyone Will Want To Mow The Lawn.

Bush Hog's new Mid-Mount Zero Turn Mowers make everyone want to mow the lawn. They feature quick maneuverability in tight places, compact size for easy trailering and storage, a pivoting front axle that follows ground contours, four engine choices and three deck choices, "quick foot" height adjustment from 1 to 4-1/4 inches, a two-year limited warranty, and much more.



BUSH HOG

Seven Reasons the 3715 Flexwing is an Excellent Choice for Heavy Duty Cutting Jobs.

(1) Each axle pivot point has a greasable bushing for long life. (2) A "no-disconnect" turnbuckle provides ease of wing adjustment. (3) Dual wheels on center section are standard. Optional dual wheels on wings assist in mowing close to ditches. (4) Optional tandem walking axles available for extreme mowing conditions. (5) Optional deck ring reduces blade to deck contact. (6) Wide wing skids reduce "dig-in" on sharp turns (7) Optional constant velocity PTO driveline.

There's plenty more features; like a 5-year limited gearbox warranty, a full 15-foot cutting width, 7 gauge steel deck construction, and more. The 3715 flexwing cutter is rated for minimum 80 PTO horsepower tractors.

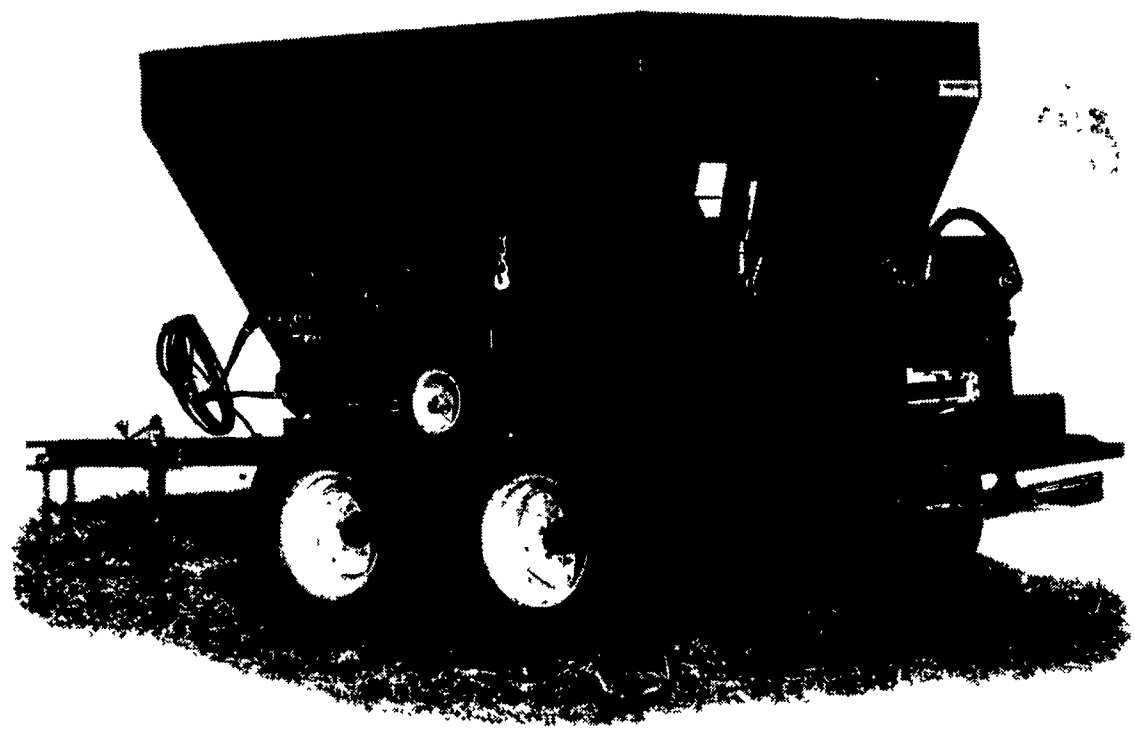
It's Time To Lime!



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

Father-Son Team Up

In the past this farm has been a hog and dairy operation. Dave became a full-time farmer with his father Lester in 1964, after his high school graduation from Meyersdale Area High School. His father and mother Lester and Gladys (Troutman) Korns are both deceased. They acquired the farm from Lester's parents, the late Earl and Ella (Lepley) Korns.

The Korns' youngest daughter Amanda lives nearby with her husband Jeff McKinley and their oldest daughter Lisa lives in New York with her husband Kevin Butler and their daughter Emily.

"We love farming and we are now trying to find a niche in the market with F-1 seed stock and club calf production," said Dave.

The father-son team works well. For Dave, the genetics of these animals is intriguing. For Chris, showing and fitting the beef cows has become a passion. Chris travels throughout the U.S. as a showman in beef competition.

With 96 acres of farmland and more than 500 acres of rented pastureland and hay ground for production of round bales, the Korns try to keep the overhead down as much as possible. The pastureland and hay fields are mostly reclaimed strip mined land.

"We keep overhead down in several ways," said Dave. "We use a four-wheeler in order to keep fuel consumption down. We also strive to keep problem-free cows."

The cattle are kept outside on pastureland year-round and are fed primarily round bales throughout the year.

The cows must calve at two years old and are bred back on time each year. The Korns look for structural soundness for longevity in a cow and udder quality and small teats, so the newborn calf can nurse easily.

An embryologist visits the homestead regularly. In order to produce a supreme club calf, a high quality donor cow is selected and then her eggs are flushed and implanted into recipient cows.

"The donor cow produces females that will produce high quality club calves," said Dave.

Cattle are baited into corrals for synchronization and for breeding A-I, and for putting embryos into recipient commercial cows, said Korns.

"We have purchased some donor quality cows. A Meyer 734 daughter, an Angus Anchor daughter, and P.S., our proven Century Touchstone and P.S. Power Play daughter," said Dave. "I like to learn the genetics and Chris likes to show cattle, so we are starting to produce seedstock F-1 heifer and club calves for 4-H and FFA kids."

Chris most recently returned from the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky., and placed second in his class. He plans to attend more international shows in the future and enjoys clipping and fitting a beef cow. Chris has traveled to Oklahoma, South Dakota, Wyoming, and other states looking for quality donor cows to produce club calf stock.

"I enjoy the artistic aspects of showing and fitting cows," said Chris. "You can take an average cow and depending on how she is clipped, that animal can do pretty well in the show ring. I enjoy the shows and working with the animals."

In addition to their beef operation, Dave also sells field and natural stone and landscaping boulders to markets in the East, and in Baltimore, Md. and northern Virginia. He acquires the stone from Somerset County and in Maryland on Big Savage Mountain and other parts of Allegany County, Md.

"We are in farming because we love it. In beef farming, the profit per unit is minimal, so we are always looking at ways to manage this operation more efficiently," Dave said. "Nowadays, farmers must be able to change and market their products more effectively."

Dave and Chris Korns of Southampton Township in Somerset County feed their herd of beef cows, mostly Angus-based brood cows, a round hay bale last week. Their farmstead has been in their family for three generations.

Dave Korns started out as a dairy farmer and then had a hog farm for several years. In the early 1990s he became a full-time beef farmer. He has worked with beef cows all his life and enjoys working on herd genetics. Here, he feeds some grain to the cows by his home and barn, but the herd is almost entirely fed hay.

Ag Community Has Strong Showing At Chamber Banquet

was honored with the 14th George C. Delp Award for a lifetime of dedication and service to agriculture.

From 1979 until his retirement this September, Shirk was responsible for dairy and 4-H programs with the Penn State Cooperative Extension of Lancaster County. Prior to 1979, he served as dairy agent in Chester County and assistant agent in Snyder and Somerset counties. His professional career spanned 41 years.

Jay Shannon, chairman of the Lancaster Chamber ag committee, quoted from several of the many nominations Shirk received for the award. An "invaluable asset, teacher, adviser, and a great ambassador for agriculture," were among the comments.

Perhaps Shirk's most notable and widely recognized trait is that he "shows a kind and caring attitude to everyone he comes in contact with," Shannon said.

Shirk's dedication to helping dairy farmers remain competitive and meet their families' needs can be best characterized in Shirk's own words.

"As I work with dairy farmers, I try to put myself in their shoes," he said.

Shirk grew up on his parents' dairy farm near Quarryville and was graduated from Solanco High School. He went on to study dairy science at Penn State, earning his bachelor's degree in 1959 and master's degree in 1961.

Three families from south of Lancaster were honored with Century Farm Awards for operating farms that have been in the family for at least 100 years.

A slide show recalled brief histories of the farms owned by Kenneth and Thelma Garber, Willow Street; Elvin T. and Martha Harnish, also of Willow Street; and Robert and Barbara Rush; Strasburg.

The Garber farm has been in the family since 1897. Ken and Thelma formerly managed a Guernsey herd and now focus on raising crops and doing custom harvest work. Three children, along with their families, are strongly connected with the farm, living and/or running their own businesses there.

The grandchildren of Elvin and Martha Harnish represent the eighth generation on their farm. Originally a William Penn grant property, Elvin's ancestors first purchased it in 1800. Son Martin and his wife Sandy manage a 40-cow dairy herd and grow a variety of produce on the farm.

The Rush farm has undergone a wide range of uses since it first came into the family in 1901. In the 1930s, during the Great Depression, two ponds were built on the property for raising bait fish, an enterprise that continues today. A poultry house, built in 1940, was later turned into a community theater and is used as a horse barn.

Also during the Monday evening banquet, guests were entertained and challenged by keynote speaker John W. Phipps, farmer and ag journalist from Illinois. He has won a number of awards for humor and quality for his monthly columns in Farm Journal and Top Producer magazines.

Keynote speaker John Phipps urges banquet guests to expand their notion of what it means to be a farmer.

Phipps noted the tough times faced by farmers across the country, and posed a tough question.

"What if this is normal?" he asked. "What if 2002 is what agriculture is going to look like in years to come?"

Recent sweeping changes in communication technologies has led to a world where "everybody knows everything at once. It takes an effort to remain clueless," Phipps said.

"What does it mean to have this level of communication happening as rapidly as it does?"

One result of this lightening-speed transfer of information is what Phipps called "chaos conditions" — a farm and business climate in which the most thorough plans often fail.

"The causes and effects are not matching up," Phipps said. "You're going to execute some things perfectly and they're going to turn out totally wrong. Planning does not guarantee success."

Farmers need to be more flexible than ever in finding ways to be successful. Even more importantly, Phipps said, farmers need to work at being connected to their families and communities.

When forced to name their priorities, many farmers say, " 'All I want to do is farm and be happy.' But if you farm, don't be surprised if happy comes in second," Phipps said. "And if you make happiness top priority, don't be surprised if you have to make some compromises in farming."

The good news, he said, is that the definition of a farmer is much wider than it has been in the past. Any number of combinations to make a living and be involved with farming are possible. These include working off the farm and/or trying a variety of enterprises on the farm.

"The people who are most successful in ag are those who try the most things," Phipps said. "You now have the ability to choose any kind of lifestyle you want."

He commended guests for attending the banquet, calling it an act of community-building.

To build community, the main thing is to "just be there," he said.

Another facet of modern life that threatens communities is the amount of time people spend in cars and trucks, according to Phipps. He said he makes a point of having face-to-face conversations with people as much as possible.

"We spend our lives looking through a windshield," he said. "If you're outside a vehicle, you engage in conversations that have a great deal more depth."

Honored at the Lancaster Ag Chamber Banquet for owning farms that have been in the family for at least 100 years, from left, are Martha and Elvin Harnish, Barbara and Robert Rush, and Thelma and Kenneth Garber.

For those of us who had mares foal last spring, it is about time to consider weaning the foals, if it has not been done already.

While no one weaning practice is best for all situations, a few necessities exist. Strong, sound and safe fences are a must. Sufficient space is needed to separate the mares from foals, ideally out of sight and sound range. Foals should be well accustomed to eating grain and drinking water from a bucket or waterer.

Traditionally, weaning is accomplished by abruptly and completely separating mares and foals. Moving mares to a new location while confining foals to a stall is perhaps the most common method. Mares should be out of the foals' range of sight and sound. On a small facility, this may involve moving the mares to another farm for a week or two. It is preferable to keep foals in familiar surroundings to limit stress and limit exposure to new pathogens to which they may not be immune.

Gradual weaning by separating mares from foals for a portion of the day (or night) prolongs the ordeal and increases labor. Mastitis may be a problem in these mares and digestive upsets from gorging may occur in the foals.

Weaning pairs of foals and placing in stalls may appear desirable initially as they have a "friend." Whinnying may be less and if the pair is compatible and the stress of initial weaning may be lessened.

However, these foals will undergo another "weaning" when eventually separated from one another.

Fenceline weaning, where foals are physically separated from the mares by a solid fence line that prohibits nursing, may provide a method of weaning with less stress on the foal. Since visual and auditory contact still exists, foals are less likely to exhibit stress behavior.

With large numbers of mares, some farms find it desirable to remove a few mares from the herd periodically and leave all foals together in the pasture to which they have become accustomed. Usually one older and very calm mare is left with the foals when the final group of mares is removed.

There is some risk with using this procedure. "Weaned" foals might attempt to nurse on foreign mares because their mother has been removed.

Regardless of the method selected, every attempt should be made to provide foals with surroundings and feed during weaning to which they have been accustomed and thereby limit stress.

Michigan Appeals Court Grants Stay On Pork Checkoff Ruling

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On Nov. 15, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 6th Circuit granted a request for stay which allows the pork checkoff program to continue without interruption while the appeal is pending.

An Oct. 25 decision by Judge Richard Enslen of the 6th District Court in Michigan ruled that the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act is unconstitutional and directed that the collection of assessments and operation of the National Pork Board cease by Nov. 24, 2002.

The stay postpones implementation of the Michigan decision and the pork checkoff program will continue to operate and conduct operations as normal while the Court of Appeals considers Judge Enslen's ruling. This stay was requested by the Department of Justice on behalf of USDA.

In accordance with this court order, the pork promotion and research program will remain in effect and pork producers and importers must continue to pay pork checkoff assessments. Producers and importers who fail to pay the assessment may be subject to late payment charges and civil penalties.

"Since producers began the Pork Checkoff in the mid-1980s, pork consumption has increased by 21 percent, research has been conducted on key producer issues and pork has become the fastest growing meat category in America's restaurants," said Craig Christensen, a pork producer from Ogden, Iowa, and vice president of the National Pork Board. "You bet we are glad to see this program continue. The Pork Checkoff provides the tools we all need on our farm, but don't have time or resources to do individually."

Christensen said: "The Pork. The Other White Meat advertising campaign is just one example of what the Pork Checkoff has done to help increase American consumers' demand for pork."

The Pork Checkoff also has played a major role in transforming the United States from a net importer of pork to a net exporter, according to Christensen. He noted the University of Missouri studies have shown that the export program alone has added more than $2 to the sale price of hogs.

U.S. pork producers and importers pay $0.40 per $100 of value when pigs are sold and when pigs or pork products are brought into the United States.

For the month of September 2002, pork checkoff receipts, which are listed on the Website, www.porkboard.org, totaled $4,054,976. Receipts from the 50 states totaled $3,673,705 and from importers, $380,271.

The National Pork Board retained $3,228,621 of the state collections and $825,354 was returned to the states. The checkoff funds from imports is retained by the national board.

Short Course Offered On Sow Management

FINDLAY, Ohio — A three-session short course on sow reproductive management is being offered to Ohio producers in December.

The Sow Management Short Course, broadcast from the University of Missouri, will be hosted at the Ohio State University Extension Northwest District Office in Findlay, Ohio, on Dec. 5, 12 and 19 from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The fee for the three-night short course is $20 per farm and registration is limited to the first 20 participants. Registration deadline is Nov. 28.

Short course topics include reproductive anatomy and physiology of the sow, sow nutrition, boar management considerations, gilt isolation and acclimation, gilt development and sow reproductive management. Livestock and swine specialists from Ohio State University, University of Missouri and University of Illinois will be on hand to present the information.

For more information on the Sow Management Short Course or to register, contact Pat Rigby, Ohio Pork Industry Center, at (800) 398-7675, rigby.8@osu.edu or log on to http://porkinfo.osu.edu.

Bowles Addresses Risk Management At Seminar

"allow someone else to take on your risk," he said.

In addition to hedging, Bowles discussed futures contracts. A contract, he reminded those present, is legally binding.

A long futures contract gives the right and obligation to take delivery of a specified quantity of a specified commodity at a specified time (buying). Likewise, a short futures contract gives the right, and obligation, to make delivery of the predetermined quantity of commodity at a certain time (selling).

Although a contract is legally binding, to eliminate a short (selling) position, "buy it back, it's easy to get out of," he said. A long (buying) position can also be sold back.

The local price is established with the Chicago futures price and the local basis. The local basis is the difference between the local cash price and the futures price. The basis is a measure of local, as compared to Chicago, supply and demand.

However, "don't get hung up on terminology," he said. "understand what it is that you want to do... a broker will help you through it," he said.

Hedging, he said, is a temporary substitute for a transaction to be made later in the physical market (as in taking today's price for delivery in April.)

Two markets that can be hedged in are the futures and cash markets — they are a buyer willing to buy a producer's cattle for delivery in April.

"If you produce or own a commodity, you are risk when the price goes down. Hedging (selling futures) eliminates that risk.

"If you have an instrument that takes advantage of when a price goes down, it's a hedge," he said. By selling futures, the position gains value when prices decline.

According to Bowles, hedging protects profits, which is "the good scenerio," he said. "Can you protect profits as big as you would like? No — profits are never as big as we'd like. That's why we don't take a respectable profit in the first place."

Holding out for larger profits is the first emotion, said Bowles. After the market peaks and begins to move back down, there is the high hopes emotion, when "they (investors) think they should have taken the earlier price — and they hope it will go back up," he said. The third emotion is fear. "So often where we sell is at the bottom, because those emotions have taken over.

"Be satisfied with a good price," he said. Producers must balance the possibility of lost opportunity with longevity.

Do your homework, advised Bowles. Know what the buyer wants and know the cost of production. On top of production costs, "add something for yourself to come up with a target price. When you find that, sell."

Hedging limits losses, besides allowing a price determination prior to the making or taking delivery of a physical commodity. With this knowledge, a producer can buy cattle either aggressively or with reserve, based on profits predicted by future prices. Hedging also satisfies lenders and removes market uncertainty, said Bowles.

He also addressed margins, a performance bond. "Basically it says, 'I am going to uphold my end of the bargain,'" he said. It is a cash deposit that is required of both the buyer and the seller.

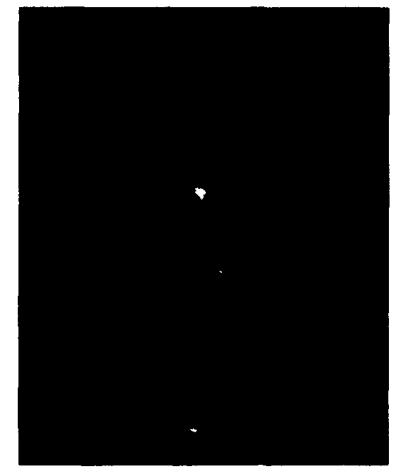
Although a margin call is an amount of capital required if account equity falls below maintenance level (which means a check needs to be sent to the broker), a margin call occurs only when futures, not the cash market, is moving against the farmer.

This means the cash market is going in the right direction and the farmer's net worth is going up.

Options on futures are "put" and "call," which protect in a down or up market. The options create a minimum or maximum price for commodities, which allows for the producer to take advantage of the upside of the market and provide an average minimum price. With options, "don't do anything unless you can fully understand what it can do for you, what it can't do for you, and what it might do to you," he said.

Bowles also spoke about commodity brokers. Make sure they do not trade on their own account, which creates a conflict of interest, he said.

Steve Van Lannen, vice president of producer relations, Packerland Packing, Green Bay, Wis., spoke to the group briefly to explain the packer's forward-contracting options. They contract high-energy Holsteins, Angus, and crossbred cattle. Producers can find futures and options prices on www.agweb.com, www.farms.com, and www.vdacs.state.va.us.



Jonah Bowles, ag risk management coordinator, Virginia Farm Bureau Federation, explained tools such as hedging and futures at a recent workshop.

Va. Dairy Bowl Quiz Team Takes National Championship

"The four of us had been on teams before. We knew each other on a personal level," said Sarah Clemons. "I wish I had made the time to study more."

The 17-year old young woman, who with her brother Josh has always been home-schooled, said that going to nationals was a dream come true and something she has always wanted. She said the experience was very satisfying.

Josh, 15, is already pursuing a dairy farmer career with determination and owns one dairy cow and several heifers.

Their parents, Tim and Julie Clemons, also have a younger son, Caleb, aged 4.

In the Phase B — team collaboration questions, Sarah Clemons was responsible for giving the answers because she was the team captain.

When the judges were asking for three answers, the team came up with six, then it was decision-making time. Clemons had to select the three she thought the judges wanted. She had the confidence that her teammates would stand by her if the answers she presented happened to be incorrect.

"The only stress was coming from the competition and the writing, not the team," she said.

Otherwise, Phase A was the written test and Phase C was a toss-up round of 20 questions, followed by the Phase C bonus questions. The latter also involved team collaboration.

The coaches who assisted Winston were 4-H volunteer leaders Patty Leonard from Fauquier County and Julie Clemons from Madison County.

The High Cost Of High Ammonia Levels

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — In a larger-than-usual turnout, more than 30 poultry producers and industry representatives recently gathered to hear information about ventilation and ammonia by Eileen Wheeler, associate professor, agriculture and biological engineering, Penn State.

Wheeler spoke at a poultry management seminar hosted by Penn State.

"Ammonia — what you can't smell may cost you" was the focus of Wheeler's speech.

Ammonia comes from manure, and volatizes with high (more than 30 percent) moisture content. Also, a high pH volatizes more ammonia.

Wheeler said that 125,000 three-pound layers need two 48-inch fans running continually for moisture removal.

In addition, 32,000 one-ounce chicks need one 36-inch fan running 30 seconds of every five minutes. Also 32,000 broilers at five pounds each need about three 48-inch fans.

Also, additional ventilation is needed during hot weather for heat removal. For cold weather, ventilation is necessary to get moisture out and for air quality (removing ammonia and supplying oxygen).

Ammonia levels should be below 25 parts per million during brooding and below 50 parts per million thereafter, according to Wheeler.

Elevated ammonia levels are believed to cause poor feed conversion, lower weight gain, blindness, and make the birds more susceptible to disease.

Because of these effects, high ammonia levels means that it will take longer to get the birds to market, plus the flock will have higher mortality, "so it just hits them all the way around the block."

Sensors to detect the level of ammonia are imperative, since "human senses get desensitized," she said. "We really can't detect it. We need to use instruments."

Wheeler recommends using a $7 glass tube for measurement. To use the tube, break off both ends, leave the tube in the house for a period of time, and take readings. Long-term (eight hours) of exposure is ideal for getting an average ammonia level. Also, boxes can be installed for continuous ammonia measurement.

Producers should not only ventilate the poultry houses when the birds are present, but even during the preheating period.

"There is a correlation between high ammonia levels and good flock settlement," she said.

Gregory Martin, poultry extension agent, joins featured speaker Eileen Wheeler, associate professor, agriculture and biological engineering, Penn State.

Ammonia levels will be more in the public eye as concerns rise and agriculture comes under closer scrutiny regarding aerial pollutants from concentrated animal feeding operations.

Consequently, producers need to identify a cost-effective emission reduction system. Diet manipulation is one option, she said.

Wheeler is part of a team measuring ammonia emission rates from various poultry houses to provide data to develop realistic information about ammonia emissions and inform poultry produces about ammonia.

"The rules of the game are changing. We can't just ventilate ammonia out" since there are environmental concerns, she said.

Monitoring not only air quality but temperature is also important, said Wheeler. "Conditions at bird level are important," said Wheeler.

"It can be one to eight degrees cooler at the floor than at thermostat height," she said.

Agway Targets December 2003 For Emergence From Chapter 11

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Agway members met in Syracuse today to hear reports from management and the board of directors and to elect directors.

As previously announced, Agway Inc. and certain of its subsidiaries filed voluntary petitions for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code on Oct. 1, 2002. Four wholly owned Agway Inc. subsidiaries — Agway Energy Products LLC, Agway Energy Services, Inc., Agway Energy Services-PA, Inc. and Telmark LLC — were not included in the filings. Also not included in the filings was Cooperative Milling, a joint venture between Agway and Southern States Cooperative.

In his report to Agway members and investors, CEO Donald Cardarelli reviewed the circumstances that led to Agway Inc.'s filing for Chapter 11 and reported on the progress made since then, including:

• Court approval for access to the Company's $125 million debtor-in-possession credit facility, which gives Agway and its stakeholders assurance that operations can continue as normal and that the Company's vendors will continue to be paid.

• Court approval of several employee, customer. and operational programs to ensure seamless transition to the Chapter 11 process.

• Court approval to sell Agway's Agronomy and Seedway businesses and related assets to Growmark, a transaction which is expected to close within the next few weeks.

Cardarelli said that Agway's businesses continue to experience no interruption of production, service or distribution. "We appreciate the cooperation we have received from our vendors and remain committed to delivering in full and on time all products and services to Agway customers," said Cardarelli.

The Company also announced that it has targeted December 2003 for its emergence from Chapter 11. "The Board and management team are fully committed to preserving the maximum value possible for Agway's securities holders, other creditors and employees," said Agway Board Chairman Gary Van Slyke. "We are also committed to moving through the Chapter 11 reorganization process as quickly as possible."

Also at the annual meeting, four incumbent directors were re-elected to three-year terms on the Agway board of directors. The elected directors included, Stanley Burkholder, Chambersburg; Donald Cardarelli, Jamesville, N.Y.; Jeffrey Martin, Cazenovia, N.Y.; and Richard Skellie, Salem, N.Y.

The Agway board re-elected Gary Van Slyke, Pike, N.Y. as chairman and Andrew Gilbert, Potsdam, N.Y. as vice chairman.

Sire Power Seeks Student Scholarship Applications

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — Select Sire Power Inc. is soliciting applicants for the 2003 Thomas E. Stanley Jr. Scholarships. The board of directors has made a commitment to providing money to support this program on an ongoing, annual basis. One recipient will receive $2,000, and several will receive $500.

Applicants must be college sophomores, juniors, or seniors enrolled in an agricultural related major, and parents, guardians, or applicant must be an active user of Select Sire Power, Inc. Applications must be completed and received by Jan. 15, 2003. Winners will be recognized at the 2003 Select Sire Power, Inc. annual meeting.

Applications are available by contacting the Select Sire Power, Inc. office at Rocky Mount, Virginia, PO Box 370, Rocky Mount, VA 24151. Telephone (540) 483-5123. Maryland Brown Swiss Association Offers Scholarships

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Brown Swiss Association is proud to announce a scholarship program that has grown from the successful activities, event, and fund-raisers of the association over the years. The funds have mainly been generated from member donations, Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sales, and profit from hosting a successful 2000 National Convention. The first scholarships from this program will be awarded at the Maryland annual meeting Sat., March 22 at the New Midway Fire Hall.

The scholarships are offered to qualified 4-H and FFA youth from Maryland and surrounding states who have had registered Brown Swiss as a project. Basis for awarding the scholarships will be promise of leadership, satisfactory scholastic rank, financial need, and knowledge of the dairy industry. The growth in the number of scholarships awarded and monetary level of each will depend upon the continued support and generosity of Brown Swiss breeders in the Maryland area and the continued success of the Mid-Atlantic Calf Sale.

Two scholarships will be offered in the amounts of $1,000 and $500, and will be awarded to applicants who meet the following qualifications:

1. Available to all dairy youth who are members of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association.

2. Must be a full-time student (12 credits/semester) enrolled in a two- or four-year college program, but not required to be pursuing a degree in an agricultural related field.

3. Available to entering freshman through entering seniors.

4. Application must be typed and filled out completely.

5. Use only space provided on the forms, and do not use additional space or paper.

6. Applicants are eligible to win the scholarship twice.

Scholarship applications can be obtained by contacting Jennifer Keilholtz, Scholarship Committee, (301) 447-2932, or contact by mail at 10609 Keysville Road, Emmitsburg, MD 27127. An official academic transcript and a recent photo must accompany the application and all applications must be postmarked no later than Jan. 15, 2003. We welcome qualified youth from Maryland, as well as the surrounding states, to apply for these scholarships.

Lebanon County Conservation District Presents Awards

HEBRON (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Conservation District recognized eight individuals for their outstanding efforts of conservation in Lebanon County at its annual planning meeting and awards banquet.

The 2002 Lebanon County Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Award was presented to dairy farmers Edward L. Heagy and Sons for their efforts in soil and water conservation on the 305 acres they farm from their home in North Annville Township. They became cooperators with the conservation district in 1982 and have continued the family tradition of conservation farming. They maintain a dairy herd of 160 cows and grow corn, soybeans, alfalfa and rye.

The 2002 Lebanon County Conservationist of the Year Award was presented to Donald L. Thomas, Sr. of Lebanon for his years of conservation volunteerism. A native of Conyngham, Thomas has been an active participant with the Quittapahilla Watershed Association, Doc Fritchey Chapter of Troup Unlimited and the Susquehannock Fly fishers Association. He is also a member of the Izaak Walton League and the Theodore Roosevelt Conservation Alliance. Thomas has worked full time as a steel fabricator for Goodhart and Sons for more than 20 years.

The 2002 Lebanon County Conservation Educator of the Year Award was presented to Mrs. Cynthis Ortega, a grades 11 and 12 ornamental horticulture instructor and an FFA advisor at Lebanon County Career and Technology Center. A resident of Manheim, Mrs. Ortega teaches Landsacpe Contracting and Floriculture. She was recognized for combining hands-on learning in the communtity with professional training for her students.

The Lebanon County Conservation Landowner of the Year Award was presented to Richard and Lois Meily who own a 132 acre farm along the banks of the historic Union Canal in North Lebanon Township. Most of the farm was preserved in 2001 with a three acre portion exempted along the canal that may some day serve as an extension of the Union Canal Park. The entire acreage is operated on a comprehensive resource management plan. Meily has been instrumental in the preservation of seven farms totaling 704 acres with another eight landowners awaiting preservation; and Mrs. Meily has worked over the last decade on improvements to the Union Canal Park which is used by locals as well as tourists.

The 2002 Lebanon County Special Recognition Award for Conservation was presented to Richard H. Light and Karen R. Light of rural Jonestown for their many years dedicated to conservation volunteerism. The long list of their nature-related activities includes the following groups: Quittapahilla Audubon Society, May Birdathon, Gerry Boltz's Christmas Bird Count and Migration Count Teams, the Nature Conservancy at Indiantown Gap, the Second Mountain Hawk watch, the county's Elementary School Envirothon, Ned Smith Nature Center, and the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation and Natural Resources.

The Lights are members of the Lancaster County Bird Club, the Muhlenburg Botanical Society and the Lancaster Butterfly Club. Mrs. Light serves on the boards of the Quittapahilla Audubon Society, the Swatara Creek Watershed Association, and the Lebanon Valley Conservancy, Inc.

A 2002 Groundwater Guardian Award: The Lebanon County Conservation District has been recognized for its work in groundwater education and conservation by the Groundwater Foundation of Lincoln, Neb. Lebanon County has been designated for the past seven years for activities conducted by its Groundwater Education Team under the leadership of Betty Conner.

The following individuals were also recognized at the banquet for their volunteerism: Bob Arnold, Dian and Emmett Beamesderfer, Kathy Blouch, Jerry Boltz, Pat Detwiler, Candice Falger, Ruth Frantz, Sarah Hall, Carol Holt, Lisa Horvath, John Hower, Karen and Richard Light, James Logan Jr., James Logan Sr., Larry Major, and Pat Shedlock, plus board members of the conservation district and Agricultural Land Preservation.

Charles Wertz, conservation district manager, gave special recognition to Ruth Sheetz, administrative assistant, for her five years of service during a period of unprecedented growth and providing administrative and logistical support to all staff. Wertz said, "We would simply be crippled without Ruth Sheetz's dedication."

Passing On Farm Workshop Slated For Williamsport

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Planning for a successor, or someone to take over the farm, is the most important task farmers need to complete if they want the farm to survive into the next generation. Yet, according to some recent statistics, many farm families have not identified a successor for their family business or even talked to family members about what will happen to the farm when they die.

To assist you in this process, Pennsylvania Farm Link and Penn State Extension will conduct a Passing on the Farm workshop at the Lycoming County Extension Office on Dec. 17 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Farmers seeking ideas for successfully passing their farm to family, or those interested in locating interested, unrelated farmers to take over an operation, should attend. Beginning farmers are also urged to participate to glean ideas for building their businesses.

Topics covered will include bringing the next generation into the farm business; business planning for a farm transfer; financing for new farmers; crop insurance; estate planning and legal implications; and farmland preservation.

The workshop will conclude with a panel of local farmers discussing how they transferred their own farms.

Contact Pennsylvania Farm Link at (717) 664-7077 by Dec. 13 to register. Lunch will not be provided.

HOW AMERICANS CAN BUY AMERICAN: The Power of Consumer Patriotism, Second Edition, by Roger Simmermaker. Rivercross Publishing, 2002, 352 pp., $24.95. ISBN 158141080-8

In an ideal world, according to Roger Simmermaker's HOW AMERICANS CAN BUY AMERICAN, open trade policies should work: provided that other governments keep their agreements. Provided they open their own doors to our products. Provided they don't adopt protectionist attitudes themselves and close the doors to what America can ultimately produce better.

But what is fair about a foreign government that sets up shop in this country, reaps the rewards from our work-obsessed culture, but pays no taxes and doesn't contribute much of anything toward our own government?

That's the central focus of HOW AMERICANS CAN BUY AMERICAN.

Author Simmermaker casts doubt on some of the ideology embraced by politicians regarding "free trade." He quotes extensively from leaders of the past that, through their own experiences, reveal that trade works only one way: to benefit the other guy. Rarely can we benefit, since so many countries simply do not want to come to the trade table in a sincere way.

He criticizes China, which is reticent, to say the least, about providing a free trade alliance with the West. While initial reports show China could really use U.S. grain imports, in actuality, they have plenty of stockpiled grain. They can truly produce enough grain to feed their population (see page 298).

But China's leaders will readily welcome any company that is willing to provide labor for their people and produce benefits that simply remain one-sided, according to Simmermaker.

Again and again, Simmermaker points out the benefits that have accrued in the past from adopting a protectionist U.S. policy. He notes the strengths of buying American-made products from companies that are truly American (though most foreign carmakers have plants in this country, unfortunately the resulting profits stay comfortably away from the U.S.) The tax incentives for the car companies are appalling, noted Simmermaker — truly, the past was a better place, before foreign manufacturers entered. Wages were high and prosperity was everywhere.

Simmermaker noted that foreign-owned companies pay fewer taxes to the U.S. government than comparable American-owned companies. The more we support American-owned companies, he writes, the stronger they will be financially and the less likely they will be to merge with or be taken over by foreign companies (page 302).

"When foreigners assume ownership of U.S. land and factories, they become our landlords and holders of the mortgage on our national treasury," writes Simmermaker. "They dissipate wealth instead of creating it since their profits return to foreign lands and the taxes are paid to foreign governments."

I was amazed at the many solid examples provided by Simmermaker in the book. He even addresses farming. On page 297:

"Perhaps we could look at the plight of the U.S. farmer. At the heart of the uneasiness many Americans feel about the global economy is the farm crisis. Earlier I discussed the disconnect between rising productivity and rising wages, and the agriculture industry is no different. Although American farmers are continually more productive, higher living standards have not materialized. Each year it seems the government devises yet another bailout scheme to keep American's farmers farming. Still, foreclosures have skyrocketed. Financial lenders in North Dakota more than doubled the number of farms they foreclosed on for 1999 alone. Mediation services, which oversee disputes between farmers and their financial lenders, saw their cases more then double as well. The consequences are far-reaching."

Simmermaker points to the "Go Texan" commercials featuring Tommy Lee Jones as consumers are given the choice of Canadian beef from more than one million cattle that slaughterhouses buy in the U.S. each year. Brazil, he claims, is always "on the very of prying open the U.S. market. Yet U.S. ranchers are barred from selling their beef to Europe, as that continent exercises its sovereign right to refuse agriculture imports that are not free of growth hormones."

Is the growth hormone requirement merely an excuse to keep Europe's own protectionist policies in place?

America continues to depend heavily on foreign investment to keep the economy going, according to Simmermaker. Yet despite consumer confidence, which remains high, "consumer optimism and consumption are being stimulated by the performance of the stock market, which also stimulates economic growth. It seems apparent we have reached a phase in America where we will both live by the stock market and die by the stock market."

He makes the blunt statement: "Both our successful past of trade protection and our current system of an open U.S. market for foreign producers has demonstrated that, at least for the United States, protectionism equals prosperity and free trade equals failure."

On page 304, Simmermaker notes: "Foreign investors are already reaping more gains from their U.S. investments than Americans take home from foreign investments overseas. In the first nine months of 1999, foreign companies announced U.S. purchases of more than double the value of 1998's volume to $256 billion, which is four times the volume for all of 1997. According to the latest data from the U.S. Commerce Department, of the $282 billion of foreign investment in 1999, only 3 percent was used to establish new operations, while 97 percent was used to acquire existing U.S. businesses." (page 304)

It's hard not to dispute Simmermaker. He certainly makes you think.

In addition, he provides many lists of products that note whether the company making the product is American or foreign-owned.

"Consumer optimism and consumption are being stimulated by the performance of the stock market, which also stimulates economic growth. It seems apparent we have reached a phase in America where we will both live by the stock market and die by the stock market."

WRITE FROM LIFE: Turning Your Personal Experiences Into Compelling Stories, by Meg Files. Writer's Digest Books, 2002, 244 pp., $16.99. ISBN 1-58297-154-4

Everyone has experiences to share. The writer's gift is the ability to use words to articulate those experiences.

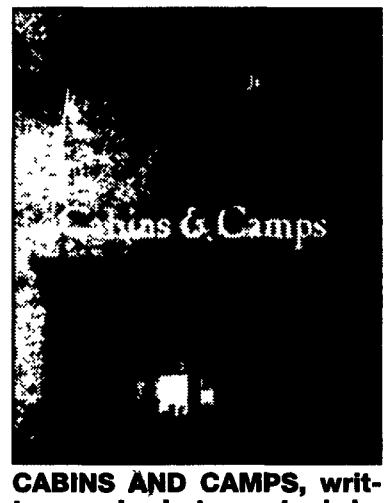
But how does a writer articulate those experiences best? Ultimately, how does he or she go about converting experiences through the "slant" called fiction, according to Meg Files in WRITE FROM LIFE, or through a simple accounting that captures the atmosphere — a compelling one, if possible — in nonfiction, sometimes used by many columnists, even those in this newspaper?

Files provides the basics of developing the writer's "voice," something that often takes years to develop. Though some people are helped by books (like this one) or workshops (though they can steal a writer's precious time away from the typewriter or computer), everyone can learn from WRITE FROM LIFE.

Files, who has authored a novel called MERIDIAN 144 and a collection of stories, HOME IS THE HUNTER, is also a published poet. Her articles have appeared in a variety of magazines. She has taught creative writing for more than 25 years at Colorado Mountain College, University of Maryland, and elsewhere. She teaches at Pima College in Tucson and directs the Pima Writers' Workshop.

Files provides a handyperson's view of how to overcome fears and to start writing. Importantly, she provides basic viewpoints: write from the heart. Dig into your inner beliefs about your experiences. Tell the story with control and authority. Look at your finished work carefully and don't ever be afraid to edit.

This is a book that columnists and correspondents can use to improve their work. This book reminds us to take a more critical look at what we write and learn to grow as a result.



CABINS AND CAMPS, written and photographed by Ralph Kylloe. Gibbs Smith, 2002, 255 pp., $60. ISBN 1-58685-135-7

This is a big, beautiful book. Now, what does it tell us?

Well, if you had plenty of money, you can make your home look similar to the wonderful Roddy Lodge on page 132. I'd like to afford the intricate, rustic, handcrafted staircase with the railings, newel posts, and spindles created from bark-off cedar on page 56. Who wouldn't want the fun dining room of the 1930-style Adirondack lakeside home (page 29)?

The bookcase built by Brian Kelly for a 1920s lodge in the Adirondacks on page 8 certainly caught my eye.

What's so appealing is the wonderful, experienced eye to the photos brought by author Kylloe, who is trained as a professional photographer and an expert on rustic design. The preface sets the tone for an astonishing work of art in itself, and speaks about the sincerity Kylloe brings to the book.

'I bought my first serious piece of rustic furniture in 1978 while I was a doctoral student at Boston University," he writes. "My roommate at the time, Jon Ames, was in the antiques business. He brought home a gorgeous six-foot oval dining room table with massive log legs. It was signed Old Hickory Chair Company. I bought it from him for $280, which was about my life savings at the time. A month later, he bought it back from me for $400. At that moment, I knew there was something to the antiques business. It was the quickest $120 I have ever made!"

This is a colorful, big, coffee-table book that decorates and enlightens in itself. Now, if I could come up with a way to afford to make my home look something like those homes featured....

Farmer/Author David Kline To Speak At Sustainable Farming Conference

GENEVA, N.Y. — David and Elsie Kline operate a modestly-sized farm in Fredericksburg, Ohio.

There are few farms in the U.S. that attract more birds per square foot than the Klines'. This is intentional.

This 35-cow Jersey farm attracts birds and other forms of wildlife for a variety of reasons. One is that wildlife is never viewed as a threat on this farm. Another is Kline's insatiable appetite for observing the gifts of life that abound around him. As a result, David has honed a keen appreciation and understanding of nature.

Kline has shared his astute observations through countless articles, two books (Great Possessions and Scratching the Woodchuck), and numerous talks. Entwined among these various stories are rays of perception that reveal the rewards of a slower-paced life. This lifestyle supports not only families and caring communities, but a people comfortable with themselves.

Economically, this farm serves as a model that blends older traditional methods with newer technologies in a manner that is environmentally friendly and adequately profitable. Indeed, it would be a safe statement that many more modern farms would envy the margin of net return afforded by this model.

The average farm in Holmes County, Kline's home, is 122 acres and horse powered. According to Steven Stoll of Yale University, the mean household income from these farms exceeds the mean household income for the county by 26 percent. A typical observation by a visitor to Holmes County is "a sense of wellbeing".

David Kline will be the keynote speaker at the Low Input Sustainable Farming Conference on Saturday, Jan. 11, 2003 in Jordan Hall at Cornell's Geneva Experiment Station. Come share ideas about your farm with David and sixteen other successful small-scale farmers.

For a conference registration packet, call Bill Henning at (315) 536-5123. Deadline for registration is December 20. Cost is $20 per person and $10 for each additional family member. Space is limited.

The Low Input Sustainable Farming Conference is supported by a CCE Grant for Innovative Small Farm Education from Cornell's Small Farms Program.

Bill Henning is Small Farm Specialist with Cornell Cooperative Extension's NWNY Team and ProDairy. For more information on Cornell's Small Farms Program, visit our web site at HYPERLINK "http://www.smallfarms.cornell.edu" www.smallfarms.cornell.edu.

'Keep Farming First' Ag Summit Designed By, For Farmer

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — It's not too early to sign up for Keep Farming First, a major farm summit — designed by and for the farmer — scheduled at Sykes Hall, West Chester University, Jan. 9-10.

With a limit of 300 participants, the summit will reflect the wealth of knowledge and resources available in Chester County, the state and beyond, and is designed for the farmer who wants to keep on farming.

Sessions at the two-day summit will address a variety of challenges and opportunities, and they've been planned by a committee largely made up of active farmers.

The summit schedule has been created with a farmer's seasons and daily tasks in mind. Large group presentations are combined with small, interactive classes beginning at 10 a.m. The faculty includes experts in agricultural economics, business and estate planners, as well as farmer representatives on panels that will address a wide range of subjects. On Thursday, classes end at 3:30 p.m. Friday closes with a summary presentation and reception.

Sponsored by Chester County 2020 Trust, the Chester County Economic Development Council and the Penn State Cooperative Extension — Chester County, the summit is an outgrowth of a major study focusing on the economics of agriculture completed in the late spring of 2002. Contributions from individuals and local foundations have made it possible to charge only $10 per person for the conference, which includes breakfast and lunch on both days as well as the closing reception.

Registration may be made by filling out and returning the form here.

FSA Reminds Livestock Producers About Loan Deficiency Payments

POTTSVILLE (Schuylkill Co.) — The Farm Service Agency is providing livestock producers' benefits because of low crop and pasture production. The program is available to owners of cattle, beefalo, buffalo, sheep, and goats.

The direct payments are based on the number of head present on the farm on June 1. The payment rates range from $4.50 for sheep and goats to $31.50 for dairy cows. The deadline to apply for benefits through this program is Dec. 13.

Crop producers should be aware that 2002 crop production could be eligible for loan and/or loan deficiency payments regardless of program participation status. The regulations for this change were not published until Oct. 8. This may have caused some growers to dispose of their crop without taking benefits. If you fed or sold 2002 small grain prior to Oct. 8 you may still be eligible for this benefit.

Applications must be filed by Jan. 10, 2003 at the Farm Service Agency located on the Gordon Nagle Trail south of Pottsville. If you have any questions call the office at (570) 622-1555, Ext. 2.

Bucks County Conducts 4-H Lamb Roundup

Justin Andress, Ottsville, with his 142-pound reserve champion 4-H market lamb at the Middletown Grange Fair. The lamb was purchased by William Coul Inspections for $575.

WRIGHTSTOWN (Bucks Co.) — Brett Poorman of New Britain showed the grand champion lamb at the Bucks County 4-H market lamb roundup conducted recently at the Middletown Grange Fair. His 120-pound Suffolk was purchased at the auction for $800 by Univest Corporation of Pennsylvania. Justin Andress, Ottsville had the reserve champion. William Coul Inspections paid $575 for Justin's 142-pound Suffolk lamb.

In all, 21 4-H members showed and sold their project lambs. The sale averaged $350/head. The judge was Don Kniffen Jr. of Ashbury, N.J.

Lamb show results:

Class 1 lambs (80-100 pounds): 1. Mollie Mann. 2. Jacob Crooke. 3. Carol Loux.

Class 2 lambs (104-108 pounds): 1. Heather Stephenson. 2. Alyssa Rockafellow. 3. Alyce Simons.

Class 3 lambs (118-128 pounds): 1. Brett Poorman 2 Justin Brown 3. Kelly Frye.

Class 4 lambs (130-144 pounds): 1 Justin Andress. 2 Curt Poorman. 3. Kyle Feldman.

PMMB Files Regulations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) Nov. 18 submitted the final form regulation for pooling 45 percent of the state mandated over-order premium to the senate committee on agriculture and rural affairs, the house committee on agriculture and rural affairs, and the independent regulatory review commission.

A copy of the final form regulation can be found on the PMMB's Website at http://www.mmb.state.pa.us.

Pennsylvania Cattleman's College Is December 14

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Cattleman's College will be conducted at Toftrees Resort in State College on December 14 starting at 9 am. The fee is $20.

"The purpose of the College is to provide timely information that will be useful to Pennsylvania beef producers," said event coordinator Dr. John Comerford, Associate Professor of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State.

The event was planned by Penn State personnel, county extension agents and members of the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association.

Some of the topics to be presented include:

• The New Livestock Evaluation Center (LEC)

"Construction of the multimillion dollar Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture facility near State College is nearly complete, so it is time to open the discussion about how the beef industry should use this facility to improve beef production in Pennsylvania," said Glenn Eberly, supervisor of the LEC.

• Cooperative Marketing of Purebred Beef Bulls. Chester County extension agent Cheryl Fairbairn has been marketing purebred bulls in the Midwestern US from her family beef herd for a number of years with several other breeders. She will discuss how they have made the process successful.

+p An Update on New Estrus Synchronization Products. Guest Brian House from Select Sires in Plain City, Ohio will discuss the use of several new tools for estrus synchronization now available for beef producers.

• Keeping the Family on the Family Farm. Beef producers who desire to see their farm remain in the family for use by the next generation will need the information from Susan Blank, a beef producer and attorney from Eighty-Four, PA. Susan will provide some useful tips for planning your estate and will answer your questions.

• The Pennsylvania Beef Council will provide information about the use of checkoff funds in Pennsylvania. Beef producers pay a $1 checkoff for the sale of any animal, and Paul Slayton, executive director of the Council, will explain what happened to the dollars in Pennsylvania. The Council will conduct its annual meeting immediately following the program, and all the attendees are invited to attend.

• Grazing systems for Pennsylvania beef farmers, the advantages and disadvantages of retained ownership of feeder cattle, nutrient management laws for beef producers, and freezer beef marketing liability and regulations will round out a full day of instruction and information.

The Cattleman's College is sponsored by Penn State Extension, the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association, the Pennsylvania Angus Association, the Pennsylvania Simmental Association, the Pennsylvania Beef Council, Intervet, Inc., and Max-Flex Fence Systems. The fee for the program, including a buffet lunch, is $20 per person, and registration has been extended to December 10. Call Dr. John Comerford at 8143-863-3661 for more information.

'Tilling The Soil Of Opportunity' Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Tilling the Soil of Opportunity" is a business planning class for farmers who want to explore different production options on their farm.

The series of meetings is aimed at teaching small to mid-scale farmers and agricultural professionals the necessary business skills to make decisions that affect their current businesses, or to start a new enterprise.

The course is taught in 12, three-hour sessions, during which farmers develop mission and goals, marketing strategies, financial statements, and other critical components of a comprehensive business plan. Each class session combines lecture, guest speakers, and worksheets to provide the information necessary to complete a chapter of the farm business plan.

"We recognize the great need to make this kind of business training available to the future stakeholders of Pennsylvania agriculture," said Russell Redding, deputy secretary, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

This business planning class is being offered by Penn State Cooperative Extension, using a NxLeveL™ program developed by the University of Colorado at Denver and the University of Nebraska. Courses are adapted site-to-site based on products and services represented and marketing potential. Classes were held for the first time in Pennsylvania, last winter in the Hershey and Gettysburg areas. These pilot classes were composed of a wide variety of agricultural businesspeople, including landscapers, Christmas tree growers, organic vegetable producers and dairy farmers.

"We think the program is of value, especially with the trying times farmers are having now and the increasing number of new farmers," said Dave Smith, MidAtlantic Farm Credit. "Opportunity abounds. Many producers are learning to succeed by taking control of their own marketing efforts, and effectively using their resources in meeting the demands of consumers."

The new training program was developed with the support of the USDA Sustainable Agricultural Research and Education program. It is available to all farmers and agricultural professionals.

People currently involved in farming and related businesses looking to "fine-tune" their current enterprises, as well as beginning farmers considering the business possibilities, are eligible to sign up for the classes that will begin soon in Lancaster and Gettysburg. The Lancaster class will meet on Monday evenings, Dec. 2-March 17 at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center. The Gettysburg class will meet Wednesday mornings, Jan. 8-April 9 at the Adams County Agricultural Center.

Northeast Order Uniform Milk Price For October

BOSTON, Mass. — Erik F. Rasmussen, market administrator for the Northeast Federal Milk Marketing Order, has announced that the statistical uniform price (SUP) paid by milk dealers (handlers) regulated under the Northeast Order during October 2002 is $12.40 per hundredweight ($1.07 per gallon) for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. (Boston). The producer price differential (PPD) portion of the SUP for October is $1.68 per hundredweight for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. The PPD ($1.68) combined with the corresponding month's Class III price ($10.72) equals the SUP ($12.40).

The SUP represents a benchmark minimum price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for farm milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The actual price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the composition of a farm's milk differs from the component benchmarks. The PPD represents each producer's share of the value generated by the marketwide pool. The PPD is added to the payment producers receive for their milk's components and is adjusted for the location of the receiving plant(s). The SUP and PPD decrease by scheduled amounts the further away the plant(s) receiving the producers' milk are from Suffolk County, Mass. (Boston).

The Class prices for milk pooled in October are as follows: Class I, $13.40 (Suffolk County, Mass.); Class II, $11.12; Class III, $10.72; and Class IV, $10.50. Comparable prices for October 2001 were: Class I $19.18, Class II $13.53, Class III $14.60, and Class IV price $12.77. The component values for October 2002 are protein, $2.1839 per pound; butterfat, $1.0726 per pound; other solids, $0.0755 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.7765 per pound.

Milk receipts from producers totaled 1.974 billion pounds. Class I utilization, milk processed as beverage milk, was 48.5 percent of producer milk receipts. The average Class I utilization was 47.8 percent in October 2001.

The manufacture of Class II products such as cream, ice cream, yogurt, and cottage cheese utilized 20.0 percent of producer milk. Milk used to manufacture Class III products such as cheese (American and Italian) and evaporated and condensed products utilized 26.9 percent of total milk receipts. Class IV usage (butter, nonfat and whole milk powder) equaled 4.6 percent of the total.

Environmental Award Winners Announced

NEW OXFORD (Adams Co) — Pilgrim's Pride conducted its third annual Eastern Division Environmental Awards banquet to recognize growers for their continued commitment to sound environmental practices.

Six Pennsylvania farms were presented with awards at a banquet held Thursday, November 21 at Cross Keys Motor Inn and Restaurant in New Oxford.

Of these, five farms received the Environmental Stewardship Award for outstanding commitment to environmental practices, and one farm received the top Environmental Excellence Award for superior commitment to environmental practices.

Robert and Karen Gochenaur, Airville, were awarded the Environmental Excellence Award for Pennsylvania. The Gochenaurs received a plaque, $500, and an addition to the sign in front of their farm that designates it as an Environmental Excellence Award winner. John Myers, the service technician who nominated the winner, received a fleece jacket emblazoned with the Pilgrim's Pride logo.

The five Environmental Stewardship Award winners for Pennsylvania were Carl and Verna Keeney, Rocky Ridge, Md.; Kenneth J. Smith, New Oxford; William M. Smith, Greencastle; Jeffrey and Susan Werner, Jonestown; and Hoover Turkey Farm, Newport, operated by James Hoover. Each winner received a plaque and $100.

Pilgrim's Pride service technicians nominated 12 Pennsylvania growers for this year's environmental awards. Criteria for these awards included the physical appearance of the farm as well as the grower's environmentally friendly operational methods, organizational practices, chemical usage control, erosion and emission control, voluntary environmental efforts, and community environmental service.

Judges for the competition were Scott Alexander, a watershed specialist and nutrient management technician from the Fulton County Conservation District; Jerry Martin, a senior extension associate from Pennsylvania State University; and Mark Flaharty, and agricultural resource conservationist from the York County Conservation District.

Beef Record

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Commercial red meat production for the United States totaled 4.14 billion pounds in August, up 2 percent from the record 4.06 billion pounds produced in August 2001, according to the National Agriculutral Stistics Service (NASS).

August 2001 contained 23 weekdays and 4 Saturdays. August 2002 contained 22 weekdays and 5 Saturdays.

Beef production, at an August record of 2.47 billion pounds, was 2 percent above the previous year. Cattle slaughter totaled 3.21 million head, down 1 percent from August 2001. The average live weight was 1,259 pounds, up 31 pounds from August a year ago.

Veal production totaled 16.7 million pounds, 3 percent below August a year ago. Calf slaughter totaled 96,000 head, up 2 percent from August 2001. The average live weight was 288 pounds, down 15 pounds from August a year ago.

Pork production totaled 1.64 billion pounds, up 2 percent from the previous year. Hog kill totaled 8.54 million head, 2 percent above August 2001. The average live weight was 259 pounds, up 1 pound from August a year ago.

Lamb and mutton production, at 16.6 million pounds, was down 11 percent from August 2001. Sheep slaughter totaled 264,600 head, 3 percent below last year. The average live weight was 126 pounds, down 11 pounds from August a year ago.

January - August red meat production was 31.1 billion pounds, 4 percent above the previous year. Accumulated beef production was up 5 percent from last year, veal was down 3 percent, pork was up 3 percent.

New Jersey Conducts Boer Goat Open Show

Dennis Hamm, Lindley, N.Y., showed the grand champion full-blood buck.

Judge Robert Herr talks with Don Borden, Hill Place Farm, Corning, N.Y. Borden exhibited the junior champion full-blood doe and the best doe in show.

AUGUSTA, N.J. — On Aug. 11, exhibitors from the northeast brought over 70 full blood and percentage Boer goats to the first annual Open Boer Goat Show at the Sussex County Farm and Horse Show.

New Jersey State Fair judge of the show was Dr. Robert Herr, Narvon.

Show co-chairs Don Karnas, Port Jervis, N.Y. and Tim Karnas, Hanover, were extremely pleased with the display of animals and the turn out of exhibitors and spectators.

They were also enthusiastic about Dr. Herr's efforts. According to Don Karnas, "Dr. Herr not only judges the animals, he teaches as he goes."

According to Tim Karnas it was the desire of the committee to address the growing need for meat goats on the East Coast. "The banner (hanging from the show table) says it all for us farmers according to Karnas. "Farmers provide the ever-changing world with a viable meat market."

Young breeders as well as older breeders were excited to show their breeding stock. They took the time before, after and even during the show to speak to the public and answer questions on the breed and the meat it supplied.

Maria Schaefer, Dingmans Ferry, had the best pair of mixed kids. Maria commented that, "It isn't only the bucks that you have to look to for breeding stock. You also have to have sound does." She proved her point with her pair of mixed kids Florence and Fred.

Amanda and Ashlee Boroughs find that raising meat goats is more challenging than raising dairy goats. They appreciate that the meat provided by their goats reaches a market earlier, faster and at a steadier pace than goat milk. The demand for meat far outreaches the milk market. "The meat from these goats is feeding the world," said Ashlee.

Don and Deb Borden, Hill Place Farm, Corning, N.Y., took junior champion full blood doe as well as best doe in show titles.

Dennis and Kim Hamm, Poplar Hill Farm, Lindley, N.Y., took grand champion and reserve champion full blood buck honors.

Don and Tim Karnas of Windy Rock Farm, Port Jervis, N.Y., and Hanover, took grand champion percentage buck, best doe and offspring, and best pair of buck kids.

The meat goat market seems to hold new potential.

Goat meat is naturally low in body fat with only 51 calories per ounce. A four-ounce serving of roasted goat has only 85 mg of cholesterol. Seventy percent of the world's population eats goat meat. The demand for goat meat is so high that the producers can't keep up. Much of the goat meat sold here in the U.S. is imported, and the demand is growing.

Plans for next year's show are already in the works, according to Don Karnas. "We will be moving towards an ABGA sanctioned show. If we can do that you will be very surprised by the size and scope of the show. We are looking forward to bringing in breeders from the south, Midwest and Texas."

For information on next year's show, contact Don Karnas (845) 856-1709 or Tim Karnas (717) 633-1772.

DO YOUR COWS NEED MORE LOAFING TIME?

Beth Grove
Extension Agent
— Dairy/Environment
Lancaster County

As a newcomer to Lancaster, one of the most striking differences I've noticed between this community and my home state is the large number of tiestall barns in the region. Whether cows are housed in a traditional tiestall barn or in a freestall facility, many farmers allow the milking cows out onto small concrete pads or dirt/grass lots for short periods of time.

These lots are important management tools, allowing for easier heat detection and cow exercise time. The dirt or grass paddocks also ease the stress of standing on concrete for long periods of time for all cows in a herd, whether tiestall or freestall.

Unfortunately, these lots can cause significant environmental problems. Heavy cow traffic and constant use often cause the grass lots to become stripped of vegetation, except for unwanted weeds. Rain hitting the bare soil can cause significant runoff, resulting in soil erosion. Soil erosion is a serious environmental problem as it tears down soil surfaces — did you know it takes more than 100 years to make one inch of topsoil? Moreover, cow lots usually collect high amounts of manure and urine, so surface water runoff can cause nitrogen and bacteria pollution of surrounding waterways. Dirt lots can also cause difficult problems with environmental mastitis during the winter and other periods of wet weather.

There is an alternative for your dairy operation — a "Dairy Rotational Loafing Lot Management System" — originally developed in the late 1980s by Jerry Swisher, a dairy extension agent in Virginia, in cooperation with the Virginia NRCS and local Soil Conservation District. This loafing lot system helps protect areas exposed to heavy livestock traffic from excessive manure and soil losses while allowing cows access to clean, cool grass for rest and exercise.

The first farm to install the system was the Roudabush Farm, located in Mt. Solon, Va. This 50-cow freestall operation used a 10-acre field to create the trial system. In recent years, many operations around Virginia have installed a form of the loafing lot system on their farms.

The "standard" loafing lot system consists of three grass paddocks and a sacrifice lot sized to the herd. The paddocks allow the producer to rotate the herd through the lots as needed to maintain a grass cover. Travel lanes may connect the barn to the different lots. Certain farms with bedded pack or tiestall barns may use their barns as the "sacrifice" area. The sacrifice area is where the herd is kept during wet or icy weather, or when the vegetative growth is insufficient. (Using the grass lots during these times would destroy or damage the sod.) The paddocks should be created to allow cows to walk on the contour of the field, rather than up and down steep slopes.

The establishment of a vigorous, thick sod is vital to withstand heavy livestock traffic. The grass paddocks in Virginia have been most successfully seeded with 50-75 pounds/acre Kentucky 31 tall fescue. Although other grasses and mixes have been tried, nothing works as well as the fescue to tie the soil down and withstand heavy cow traffic. (Remember, these paddocks are not for grazing, although they may be clipped for hay.)

Soil types, paddock slope, exposure, and time of planting are all important to establishing a good sod. The sacrifice lots and grass paddocks should have adequate slope (3-10 percent) to provide for drainage.

A good rule of thumb in sizing the rotational lots is to allow for 20-25 cows per acre in each paddock; thus, a 50-cow herd would need three paddocks of two to three acres. In very tight situations, or on farms with very fertile soil and good drainage, 30 cows or more per acre can work with careful management. If a sacrifice lot is needed, farms should allow one acre for 50 to 60 cows. It is a good idea, although not always practical, to provide water in the paddocks for the herd.

What are the advantages of such as system? There are many, including:

• Improved foot health. Concrete is very demanding on the hoof of a dairy cow. Manure and urine in dirt lots and concrete pads will erode the soft tissue of the cow's hoof. The grass lots provide exercise and help clean and dry the cow's hoof between milking times.

• Reduced soil and nutrient loss. The loafing lot system helps prevent nutrient runoff to above- and below-ground water sources, reducing soil loss. At the Roudabush Farm, soil loss figures were calculated both before and after installation of the loafing lot system. Researchers determined a soil loss of 72 tons/acre/year for the bare 10-acre loafing area. This was reduced to a loss of only .43 tons/acre/year for the three grass paddocks after the system was in place.

• Milk quality and cow cleanliness. Cows that rest in clean, dry, grassy areas are less likely to contract environmental mastitis, and they will come into the milk barn with cleaner udders. This will also help reduce cow prep time in the parlor.

Soil temperature. During times of heat stress, a grass sod is much cooler than dirt or concrete. Jerry Martin, who worked for years with the Pequea-Mill Creek project demonstration farm here in Lancaster, measured temperatures at soil level in various lots at that facility. On days with 90+ temperatures, the grass lots were an average of 9.3 degrees cooler than the dirt sacrifice areas.

• Mowing and hay. The paddocks should be clipped to promote growth and vigor. In a good season, some producers will graze heifers or dry cows on the paddocks. Harvesting hay is also a good practice, when possible, because it "mines" the nutrients from the soils and makes good heifer hay.

• Farm appearance. What could be more beautiful than a herd of healthy cows on lush grass fields? Muddy lots and dirty cows send the wrong message to the public about agriculture and dairy farming.

For more information about this dairy loafing lot system, contact Beth Grove at (717) 394-6851 or Jerry Martin, senior extension associate with the Nutrient Management Education Program in Harrisburg, at (717) 783-9704.

Farmers Union Urges Curbing Of Dairy Imports

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In answer to historic-low domestic dairy prices, National Farmers Union is asking Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman to step up dairy import safeguards. In a letter to the secretary, NFU President Dave Frederickson provided solutions to improve the market price, which is at the lowest level since 1978.

"Low prices, higher input costs and a flood of imports are threatening the livelihood of American dairy producers," Frederickson said. "Strong measures are needed to respond to the crisis facing U.S. dairy farmers."

In what Frederickson called an "important first step," USDA recently announced that it will apply an additional tariff to above-quota imports of American-type cheese. USDA reported that as of Sept. 30, American-style cheese imports were just over 48 million pounds, well above the 36-million-pound quota. The additional 16-cent duty increases the above-quota duty to 64 cents per pound through Dec. 31.

However, Frederickson was not pleased with the secretary's decision to lower the government purchase price for nonfat dry milk, saying it could cost producers as much as $1 billion in lost income.

Among the actions Frederickson said were necessary are: ending the use of milk protein concentrate (MPC) as a food ingredient; changing trade laws to ensure that dairy blends and MPC are subject to dairy tariff-rate quotas in future trade agreements; improving agricultural surge protection provisions to increase the effectiveness of tariff-rate quotas; analyzing the price impacts of government-subsidized sales of nonfat dry milk for production of casein; and a formal review of the actual cost of production of MPC, casein and casein derivatives.

Judging School Jan. 18

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Purebred Dairy Cattle Association will conduct a Judging School at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Saturday, Jan. 18 here at the Farm Show Complex.

Participants will have the opportunity to judge many breeds of cattle during the school. The school will start at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 18.

School official is Dennis Patrick, well-known breeder and judge from Woodbine, Md.

The PDCA-approved judge's list is sent to county extension offices and is available to local fairboards for use in locating judges for their shows. Participants, by placing well at the judging school, have the chance to get their name on the approved list.

The cost for the 2003 school is $20. This fee covers school costs.

If you would like to participate in the 2003 Pennsylvania PDCA Judging School, complete the application form and return it by Jan. 2 with your $20 payment. If you would like more information, contact Ken Raney, PDCA secretary, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801, (814) 234-0364 or e-mail at pha@vicon.net.

The Hall of Fame Award is presented annually to a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association recognizing an individual or couple for their achievements and contributions to the Holstein industry as well as activities in other agricultural and community activities.

Applications should be completed and forwarded to: Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801.

More information on the Hall of Fame Award can be obtained by contacting the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College PA 16801, (814) 234-0364 or fax (814) 234-1698. Applications are due by Dec. 31.

Holstein Association Sales Applications

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association announces it is seeking applications for the Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Award.

The contest is open to any Pennsylvania and National Holstein Association member between the ages of 21-40 (as of Dec. 31, 2002) who owns or has management responsibilities for a herd of cows. The herd must be on official DHIA test.

The award is to recognize accomplishments of young Holstein breeders and to encourage them to establish goals that will aid in their management decisions to help achieve a profitable dairy operation.

The winning entry from Pennsylvania will receive a complimentary room at the 2003 State Convention and convention banquet tickets. They will also have their entry sent on for national competition.

Applications for the Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Award are available by contacting Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College PA 16801, (814) 234-0364 (phone), or (814) 234-1698 (fax). Entry deadline is Jan. 15.

2002 Big E Attracts More Than 1.1 Million Fairgoers

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — "The 2002 Big E was an outstanding event bringing people together from throughout the region and beyond," Eastern States Exposition President Wayne McCary said.

The 17-day Big E concluded Sept. 29 as 1,165,224 fairgoers gathered to enjoy world-class entertainment, witness some of the finest agricultural events in the nation and savor the tastes of the Fair to experience fair memories they will never forget."

Attendance records for the 17-day Big E were broken on the first two Saturdays of the Fair (days 2 and 9) at 116,499 and 154,166 respectively; the second Monday at 56,702; the last Sunday at 112,713. Twelve of the 17 days exceeded last year's daily tallies. The million mark was reached on Saturday, Sept. 28. Overall, attendance exceeded that of the 1,135,480 visitors in 2001 by 29,744.

"Patriotism and general American spirit were prevalent throughout the duration of the Fair, making The Big E not only successful, but also special," said McCary. "The atmosphere of Americana was seen everywhere and we all took pride in our nation and our Fair. Generations of families returned to the Fair once again, embracing their New England culture and proving once again that Americans are a resilient people."

The Fair began with a rousing. "New England Salute to America" theme. Working with the American Bus Association, the Avenue of States was the site of a large Pancake Breakfast Across New England, with hundreds of tourists dining together.

The first of 56 processions in the course of the 17 days, the "Salute to America" Parade on Sept. 13 included the seven colorful Mardi Gras floats, sponsored by Foxwoods Resort and Casino. Red, white and blue beads were hurled by float passengers to the thousands of visitors along the parade route.

This year's premier exhibit, titled, "Norman Rockwell Paints America," featured Norman Rockwell's 322 Saturday Evening Post covers. Well over 200,000 visitors viewed the famed American artist's work, including reproductions of Rockwell's "Four Freedoms." The display was organized by the Norman Rockwell Museum at Stockbridge, Mass.

Another premier for 2002 was The Big E Cream Puff, the Fair's new signature dessert. The success of the cream puff far surpassed the expectations of Big E executive staff. An estimated 50,000 people ate these sweet and scrumptious sensations while watching the puff-making process first hand at the Cream Puff Bakers. More than 7,000 quarts of heavy cream and 30,000 eggs were used to make the cream puffs.

New to the Fair this year was the New England Band Organ. Don Stinson, of Stinson Band Organs, designed the band organ specifically for Eastern States Exposition under the direction of McCary. The new mechanical band organ features elaborate decorations and instrumentation and is housed in a specially-designed trailer.

Also in the Coliseum were the Sheep Dog Trails, Ox Pulling Competitions, and Canada/USA Ox Haul Challenges.

The 4-H programs were honored as part of the celebration of 100 years of 4-H. Approximately 1,600 members of this long-standing youth tradition participated at the Fair. Continuous 4-H and open livestock shows and contests were conducted in the Mallary Complex for 383 beef and dairy cattle, 1,107 sheep, 253 goats, 146 llamas and 40 swine. The Avenue of Agriculture offered a unique opportunity for audiences to learn about the roles these animals play in modern life.

Also found in the Mallary Complex were numerous agricultural events and activities. Sculptor Jim Victor of Pennsylvania, returned to The Big E to create a representation of Normal Rockwell's "County Agent" using over 500 pounds of butter. The exhibit was sponsored by the New England Dairy Promotion Board.

The Avenue of Agriculture offered a unique chance for visitors to learn about the roles various animals play in our daily lives. Ag in the Fast Lane demonstrated the links between agriculture and industry through a display using an Indian Motorcycle. Barn Tours® offered an in-depth look at educational aspects of agriculture, as well as some fun and fascinating facts.

Approximately 5,475 gallons of cow's milk were produced over the course of 17 days. Some 18 tons of grain and 35 tons of hay were fed to the competing livestock, and 60 tons of straw and 7,100 bags of shavings were used in bedding the animals.

Every year, Farm-A-Rama in the Stroh Building features the chick hatchery, and this year, 1,372 chicks were hatched. Agricultural entertainment could be found in Farm-A-Rama as Farm Follies returned with singing life-size veggies. Jack "Mr. Garbology" Golden presented his off-beat "Garbage Is My Bag" comedy skit on recycling and byproducts of garbage.

Grange Elects New Officers At 136th Annual Convention

PORTLAND, Ore. — The National Grange elected one new member to its board of directors and two new ceremonial officers at the 136th National Grange Annual Convention where the oldest grassroots advocacy organization in the nation is meeting to evaluate dramatic new initiatives.

Since 1999, the National Grange has been re-evaluating old programs and developing dynamic new programs designed to re-structure the Grange into a more vital and significant community organization while retaining its historic traditions.

Kevin Klenklen of Ozawkie, Kan. was elected to the board of directors for a two-year term. Although his first national office, Klenklen was most recently president of the Kansas State Grange.

Klenklen assured the delegates at the convention that he supported changes that would open the Grange up to more community service opportunities and attract new members. "Growth is critical if the Grange is going to continue to make itself relevant to the individual and family needs in such a constantly changing world," he said.

"The Grange has become more flexible in its traditional century-old procedures, but additional changes need to be made," Klenklen said. "The Grange Renewal programs now in place need to be fully supported and Grange members at the community level allowed to explore new programs to serve its communities."

Also elected to offices that are a part of the ceremonial history of the Grange, were Mary Hunt, Coulee City, Wash., to the office of Pomona, and Judy McCann, Tonkawa, Okla., elected to the Ceres position. Hunt was recently reelected to another four-year term on the Douglas, Wash. County Commission.

The National Grange is this nation's oldest general farm and rural public interest organization. Founded in 1867, today the Grange represents nearly 3,000 local, county and state Grange chapters across the country.

Cornell Program To Strengthen Sheep, Goat Markets

ITHACA, N.Y. —The Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program at Cornell University was established in January 2001 to improve the marketing infrastructure for sheep and goats in the 12 northeastern states of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and West Virginia.

The program is funded by the Lamb Meat Adjustment Assistance Program, which resulted from legal actions taken by the American Sheep Industry Association to limit cheap lamb imports to the U.S.

Bob Melchior was highly effective in the marketing coordinator position for the program until his unexpected death in early August. To continue to serve producers in the Northeast and fulfill the obligations of the grant, Cornell University elected to fill the marketing coordinator position.

Susan Schoenian, a University of Maryland (small ruminant) extension agent and sheep and goat producer, assumed 50 percent of the responsibilities of the position and concentrates her efforts in the southern half of the 12-state region.

Chris Parsons, a goat producer and custom processor from Pine City, N.Y., performs 50 percent of the duties and focuses his efforts on the northern half of the region. Susan can be reached at (301) 432-2767 ext. 343 or ss80@umail.umd.edu. Chris can be reached at (607) 732-4987 or cgparsons@prodigy.net.

Program staff and an advisory board with representatives from each of the 12 states have implemented several pilot marketing projects. Graded tele-auctions have been organized at various locations in New York State. A successful marketing pool has been established whereby a group of a half dozen producers, representing 1,200 ewes on accelerated lambing programs, is supplying 10 to 20 "premium quality" lambs per week to a retail market in New York City.

One of the primary accomplishments of the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program is the establishment of a sheep and goat marketing Website at www.sheepgoatmarketing.org. The site includes program information, news, links, calendar of events, links to regional auction prices, an ethnic calendar, articles on marketing, and a directory of producers, feeders, dealers, buyers, sellers, auction houses, retailers, wholesalers, and processors. It is a one-stop resource for marketing information for sheep and goat producers in the Northeast. One of its latest additions is a slide show featuring the humane restraining system.

Producers can help extend the efforts of the program by participating in the upcoming regional marketing summits, by adding their names to the program mailing list, and by providing input to Cornell University, Susan and Chris, and/or the advisory board, all of which have contacts on the Website.

The dates and locations for the regional marketing summits are as follows:

• Saturday, Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Chichester, New Hampshire, Town Hall. For more information contact Bruce Clement at bruce.clement@unh.edu or Mike Thonney at (607) 255-2851 or mlt2@cornell.edu.

• Friday, Jan. 10 at Harrisonburg, Va. in conjunction with the Virginia North Carolina (Mid-Atlantic) Shepherd's Symposium. The marketing summit will consist of a marketing panel followed by an open discussion with the NESGMP as the focal point. Both sheep and goat producers are urged to attend. For more information, contact Susan Schoenian at (301) 432-2767 ext 343 or ss80@umail.edu.

• Saturday Jan. 18 at the Cornell Sheep Farm, Harford, N.Y. in conjunction with the Quinterly Cornell Sheep Farm Field Day. Both sheep and goat producers welcomed. For more information, contact Dr. Michael Thonney at (607) 255-2851 or mlt2@cornell.edu.

For more information about the Northeast Sheep and Goat Marketing Program, contact Dr. Michael Thonney, Cornell Animal Sciences Department, (607) 255-2851 or visit the Website at www.sheepgoatmarketing.org. Additional information about sheep, goats, and many other topics can be found at Cornell's Small Farms Program Website: www.smallfarms.cornell.edu.

Evaluation Center Bull Test Under Way

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The 2002 Bull Performance Test is under way at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Livestock Evaluation Center in State College.

Bulls were placed on test on Oct. 29th, and over the course of 112 days will be evaluated for average daily weight gain, feed efficiency, and genetic potential. Based on the performance of the bulls, the Livestock Evaluation Center can objectively determine their hereditary potential.

By unlocking this genetic potential, the PA Department of Agriculture is able to present valuable information to beef producers for their breeding programs.

"Pennsylvania agriculture has 'Products for the Planet,'" PA Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes said. "To maintain our leadership status in America and the world, we have to keep building a strong future for agriculture. The PDA Livestock Evaluation Center does this.

"At minimal cost to the producer, genetic traits can be evaluated on their bulls, providing guidance in making important management decisions about their herds."

At the conclusion of the test, the bulls will be offered for sale on March 28, 2003 at the Ag Arena, University Park, Centre County.

To accelerate and elevate the PA Department of Agriculture's support of the livestock industry, PDA has embarked upon the construction of a new, world-class Livestock Evaluation Center.

"This construction project, in excess of $6.4 million, is moving towards completion," noted Secretary Hayes. "Agriculture is our number one industry in Pennsylvania, contributing over $40 billion annually to our economy. To keep Pennsylvania's livestock species out-front in the quest of genetic excellence, we need to provide 21st century facilities.

"Now it is time for a test facility that better reflects what our livestock producers need," said Secretary Hayes.

"This new complex is ten times larger than the current facility operated by the PA Department of Agriculture. Our new Livestock Evaluation Center is over 178,000 square feet and will include learning venues for students of agriculture and a meeting place for agriculture conferences."

An estimated 150 beef bulls can be placed on test at the new center, providing more proven genetics for the beef industry.

The most recent census data shows income from Pennsylvania beef production on 28,000 farms was $409.7 million, an increase of 6.7 percent from the previous year.

For more information on the Livestock Evaluation Center, the Bull Performance Test, or Pennsylvania's beef industry, contact the Department of Agriculture at (717)-787-4737 or Glenn Eberly at the Department's Livestock Evaluation Center (814)-238-2527.

Horse Tradition In Evidence At World Percheron Congress America

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Correspondent

LEXINGTON, Va. — Their biographical sketches in the World Percheron Congress America 2002 booklet certainly made clear that keeping Percheron horses has been a long-standing family tradition for several owners and exhibitors.

Some boast the Percheron tradition at the family homestead began back in the mid-1800s.

That's how it is with Ames Construction, Burnville, Minn. and Ames Percheron Farm, Jordan, Minn., owner of the world champion gelding, Karrimont Grandeurs J.E.B. by Blackhome Grandeur Lyn and winner, also, of a world champion title in each the 6-horse hitch of stallions/geldings and the 8-horse hitch of mares, stallions/geldings.

Ames says its Percherons are considered the symbol of family pride, spawned in 1874 and carried through 128 years of succeeding generations.

On the other hand, north or south of the Canadian/U.S. border Cape Cod Percherons from Canada is a familiar sight wherever the spotlight happens to be turned.

In the 1930s, Cape Cod grew from the enterprising labors of a man named Hedley Creelman. Creelman used single Percherons in a logging and sawmill operation, skidding logs to the roads, and loading them on sleds that were pulled to the mills by Percheron teams.

Creelmans wife, Jesse, a nurse from Boston, was using a Percheron cross-driving horse for the necessary transportation to conduct medical house calls while her spouse was breeding mares, raising colts and showing Percherons at fairs.

As the years passed, the family never lost its love for the versatile Percherons during the era when Hedleys son, Kenneth, and his brothers were industriously developing a wood siding manufacturing business.

In 1990, when he cut back his professional commitments in favor of a semi-retired status, Kenneth turned again to Percheron horses, his interest particularly focused on geldings, according to his sons, Ross and Douglas.

Mt. Bethel Farms, Meriden, Kan. retains the tradition that Adam Becker began in 1868. Becker raised Percheron draft horses and established an operation which was strong until the revolutionary advent of tractors. What had been a 300-head herd dwindled to a few teams maintained for feeding when conditions didn't allow the use of tractors.

Then in 1995, Percheron show horses returned to Mt. Bethel and the herd now includes some 40 mares, foals, and stallions.

Virginia Hosts World Percheron Congress

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Correspondent

LEXINGTON, Va. — From Oct. 22-26, the World Percheron Congress America 2002 awarded numerous grand champion and world titles in halter, hitch, farm, amateur, and crossbred classes. Premier, senior, and junior exhibitor were also named. The Congress was presented by the Percheron Horse Association of America.

One organizer indicated the event was really a tribute to the noble Percheron horse and a celebration of a magnificent breed whose descendents provided the power to build and feed the nation. The Percheron horses seen by visitors to the Congress, however, were not exactly like their centuries-earlier counterparts who originated in the province of Le Perche in Normandy, France.

That is because the breeding of them now is done primarily for pleasure and exhibition. Indeed, that aspect got plenty of testimonial fodder in the form of cheering fans engrossed in the majestic horses.

The Percheron breed had barely survived the era of mechanization subsequent to the conclusion of World War II. Sources report the rebuilding process for Percherons has taken 40 years but now the number of those being registered is steadily climbing.

The prestigious Congress saw some 650 Percheron horses and 267 exhibitors converge at the world class Virginia Horse Center.

Some 27 of the lower 48 states were represented in the participation. A number of exhibitors and owners took a sojourn south from the Canadian provinces in order to enjoy the challenge and prove their mettle in stiff competition.

According to Alex Christian, Fredericktown, Ohio, paid attendance exceeded 4,000 guests. Christian is the Percheron Horse Association of America's secretary.

Albert Cleve, the show superintendent from Farmington, Mo., expressed a positive observation in mentioning the high quality of Percheron horses exhibited and the show itself.

"I think it went very well," Cleve said. "Its the biggest Percheron show in current years. The quality was extremely high."

"Blue Ribbon Farms Hercules" was the grand champion stallion. Hercules is owned by Blue Ribbon Farms, operated by Albert and Karen Cleve, Farmington, Mo. Blue Ribbon Farms was also the breeder. Pennwoods Percherons, operated by Chad and Rhonda Cole, Centre Hall, Pa., exhibited the stallion.

"Rolling Acres Spike" was reserve grand champion stallion. Spike is owned by Dennis Mays, Fredericksburg, Ohio, who also exhibited him.

Here an exhibitor drives his team through the difficult course in the team log skid class.

"Madison," owned by Beth Burger of Burger Percherons, Willard, Ohio was the grand champion mare. Burger was also credited as exhibitor and breeder of Madison.

The reserve grand champion mare was "G.T.s Delight," owned and bred by Gray Transportation, Fairbank, Iowa, but exhibited by Pennwoods Percherons, Centre Hall, Pa.

"Karrimonts Grandeur J.E.B.," shown in the 4-year-old and under class, was the grand champion gelding. Ames Percherons, Burnsville, Minn. was listed as both owner and exhibitor.

The reserve grand champion geldings name was not available, but Brygale Farms, Ontario, Can., is the owner.

During the sale that was Friday afternoon, the third day of the Congress, 6-year-old "Blue Ribbon Farms Josie Lyn," was the top-selling mare.

Josie Lyn was purchased for $8,500 by James Cole, Spring Mills, Pa. from seller Albert and Karen Cleve, Farmington, Mo.

A yearling male named "Blue Ribbon Farms Onassis" was the top-selling stallion at $5,100. Purchaser Richard and Janette Peeters, Schenevus, N.Y. bought Onassis from Albert and Karen Cleve of Blue Ribbon Farms, Farmington, Mo.

Gray Transportation, Fairbank, Iowa, was the "six horse hitch, registered mares" world champion amid nine exhibitors in the class. In a field of 14 exhibitors, Ames Construction, Burnsville, Minn., was the "six horse hitch" world champion and went on to win the "eight horse hitch" world championship as well, which had five exhibitors.

The premier exhibitor was Blue Ribbon Days (Albert Cleve Family, Farmington, Mo. and Jim Day Family, Bradgate, Iowa).

The filly that Neil Armstrong of Michigan won in a raffle was "Vintage Midnights Samantha," out of Happy Hill Midnight and S.F. Knights Delight, on Jan. 14, 2001. Douglas K. Wurz of Vintage Springs Farm, Ashland, Va., made the fillys donation.

Caren Stutzman, Hiram, Ohio, the World Percheron Congress America 2002 Queen, said beginning with a Shetland pony that

Rigged out in showy harnesses, the magnificent Percherons bring a crescendo of shouts, roaring applause, cheers and whistles. Ames Percheron Farm owned by Ames Construction, Burnville, Minn., later is named world champion and the reserve world champion is Strawberry Lane Percherons, Greg and Debra Lurvey, Oconomowas "ornery," horses have been a central part of her life from the early years.

Excitement peaks at the World Percheron Congress America 2002 as the "eight horse hitch, mares, stallions/geldings," class gets under way.

A firm conviction the young woman holds is that two Percherons are definitely better than one. That's why last summers arrival of a new foal was so exciting for the young woman who has a barn under construction.

Stutzman has attended the Ohio State University, Agricultural Technical Institute, and Kent State University. She says that improving her team driving skills is continual work.

During the six and eight-horse hitch classes, spectators learned from the courteous announcer that each team in the lineup has a function.

"Remember, I told you the biggest and baddest is next to the driver," he said, at one point. These Percherons are the wheel team located next to the driver. They don't get much action.

Rock solid and seeing more action is the swing team in the middle. Up front, the leaders see the most action, but are smaller than the latter teams.

"The showiest horses are up front," said the announcer.

"You can't imagine the adrenaline rush of these drivers," he said. "Only a handful of drivers in the world can do what these drivers do," he added as the drivers had to skillfully execute a reverse pattern with the teams. It was done with elegant grace and style to an appreciative uproar of tribute.

Tom Berry, Kansas City, Mo. was the congress chairman, and Albert Cleve, Farmington, Mo., show superintendent. Bill Grimm, Gowanda, N.Y. was farm show manager and Sally Moore, Ferrum, Va., crossbred show manager. Dave Schubert, Brainerd, Minn., managed the horse sale and was the auctioneer.

Crae Eller, Arcadia, Ind., was the halter judge and Steve Gregg, Cargill, Ontario, Canada, the hitch judge. The riding judge was Ellen Fischer, Claysville, Pa. and Steve Ade, Salina, Kan., the farm class judge. A. Parker Shinn, Bunker Hill, N.J., was farm pull judge.

Announcers were Dave Schubert, Brainerd, Minn.; Jennifer Cleve Blum, Farmington, Mo.; and Dick Liedorff, Brookfield, Mo.; Jesse Darlington, Centre Hall, Pa., was the ringman and Frank Twitty, Kansas City, Mo., the assistant ringman. Brian Richmond, Staffa, Ontario, Canada, managed photography.

After walking, cantering, and reversing direction in Class 69, "Cart, man driver, registered mare," exhibitors are lined up awaiting the judge's pronouncement of the champion.

Anniversary 'Golden' For Messick's

Smith, Theunis Headline Stakeholders Conference

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rick Smith, chief executive officer of Dairylea Cooperative, Inc., and Carl Theunis, CEO of Tinedale Farm LLP in Wisconsin, will present at the 2002 Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders Conference at the Holiday Inn East in Harrisburg Dec. 11-12.

Eleven other presenters, including dairy producers, processors, retailers and dairy market innovators, will join Smith and Tinedale to address the opportunities and responsibilities that will define the future of the Northeast dairy industry.

Smith has been the CEO of Dairylea, based in Syracuse, since 1988 and has represented the more than 2,500 dairy farmers throughout the Northeast who are members of Dairylea. He also serves as chief operating officer of the Northeast Council of Dairy Farmers of America and serves as chief executive officer of Dairy Marketing Services, LLC, a joint milk-marketing venture between Dairylea and Dairy Farmers of America in the Northeast. Smith will lead a panel discussion on "the Northeast dairy industry, where we are and where we can be," sharing his insight on the opportunities that await those involved in the industry.

Tinedale Farms LLP is a 1,800-cow facility and 4,000-acre cropping operation. Theunis and his wife Sharon have four sons who are all partners and managers in the business. The operation is divided into profit centers that enable the managers to develop strategies for success. Theunis is also involved in an exciting new company, Ag Environmental Solutions LLC, which has developed an anaerobic digestion system and a solids separation system targeting phosphorous removal for the dairy industry. Tinedale will lead a panel discussion on "Successful, Successive Dairy Operations."

In addition to Smith and Tinedale's panel discussions, the conference will include a panel discussion on dealing with local ordinances and governmental regulations, which will include presentations by Christine Kellett from Dickinson Penn State Ag Law Center, Elam Herr from the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors, Bob Ruth from Country View Family Farms swine operation, and Steve Graybeal of Graywood Farms dairy operation.

The conference fee is $90 per person, which includes all meals. For more information or to register, contact Michelle Jaymes Parks, conference coordinator, at (717) 948-6609 or michelle@padairystake.org.

Virginia Dairy Princess Touts Milk As Eighth Natural Wonder

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Correspondent

BRIDGEWATER, Va. — Joanie Will, the Virginia State Dairy Princess, declares milk is the eighth natural wonder. In fact last January 25 at Fredericksburg, that was the gist of the skit that helped to elevate her to the pinnacle of state title ownership.

When reminiscing about her reign as the Virginia State Dairy Princess, nothing is as refreshing for Joanie Will of Bridgewater as a mug of cold milk while sitting at the table reviewing a scrapbook full of memories.

Milk really is a natural wonder if only more consumers would realize it.

Will knows that drinking milk, eating cheese and ice cream all contribute to the strength of the bones she needs to run and kick while engaged in soccer. And soccer is a game she has loved for quite a few of her 17 years. Even as a high school freshman, she was good enough to play on the varsity soccer team. Currently, for the Turner Ashby High School girls team, the princess is a senior occupying the position of right wing.

Representing the dairy industry of Virginia, Will has tallied miles and miles, up and down, over and across the majestic Shenandoah Valley. To the north and Winchester, to the south and Roanoke, to the east and Richmond, the state capitol. In between she attends DHIA meetings and all types of other events throughout the state.

A promotion in Maryland was a night to remember. She and other dairy maids handed out milk at a soccer game. Not only did they witness the U.S. women's team play Pittsburgh but also Mia Hamm, who is Will's soccer hero, in action on the playing field.

"Most promotions have been good experiences. I think Im still nervous when I give speeches or a milk toast," she said, confessing that on those occasions she felt a bit taut.

She recalls segments of the state competition before an audience at the convention that attacked her nerves.

"One thing I remember," she said, "Marty Potts (the coordinator) asked: 'Do you need a hug?' What a boost it was to take Potts up on the offer."

The open spaces in her daily appointment diary began to fill up as soon as the event was over. Among the first official duties was a visit to the Virginia General Assembly, where she was introduced to the state law makers.

Chaperoned by Beverly Will, her mother, Will traveled to Hagerstown, Md. to meet the state dairy princesses from Maryland and Pennsylvania. She also attended the dairy princess seminar held in Pennsylvania. Will and her counterparts were fine-tuned to deliver solid dairy knowledge to the public with feminine grace and courtesy.

The best payoff for her efforts since then have been from the dairyman himself. Will says a word of appreciation or thanks from the farmer goes a long way toward feeling good about her responsibilities.

"It always makes me feel good to hear a farmer say, 'Thank you," she said.

Her dad, Joe Will, along with her grandfather and uncle keep a 100-head dairy herd of primarily Holsteins and 20-25 Jerseys. The business also includes two poultry houses which during the 2002 AI outbreak escaped unscathed, according to Joe.

Jenny Will, 15, and Charlotte Will, 13, have picked up additional farm chores since their elder sister has so many promotional responsibilities mainly tending the chickens. That's been a blessing to Will who shows Jerseys and belongs to the Rockingham County 4-H Dairy Club. She showed the grand champion Jersey breed animal at the Rockingham County Fair. Jenny and Charlotte showed Jerseys too as they exhibit as a family.

Mall promotions for Will have included one at Valley Mall in Harrisonburg where live animals were on site.

"It was popular. We had calves coming from everywhere," Will said. Another memorable occasion was competing with Miss Farm Bureau, the Virginia Beef Queen, Miss Virginia, and the state Commissioner of Agriculture Carlton Courter in a milking contest. In the art of extracting the warm white liquid by hand his greater expertise caused the commissioner to be disqualified. It seems he out-squirted the competition. Nevertheless, with him out of the running, Dairy Princess Will and Miss Virginia were declared to have tied for first place.

A little girl Will met around the same time was disappointed when the dairy princess was caught without personal photographs to pass out. The youngster was asking for one along with an autograph. Will diplomatically wrote down the child's address and as soon as she got home, signed a picture and mailed it to her.

The first new babies to be born in Rockingham and Augusta Counties were celebrated during June National Dairy Month. Bearing "dairy good" gifts for them the princess paid visits to the parents and their newborns. During the month, she sent dairy messages to the audience of a local radio station.

In more routine requirements, Will presented ribbons at dairy events. She whipped up homemade ice cream for the co-workers at a local restaurant where she is employed.

Serving individuals from the giant ice cream sundae in a kids plastic swimming pool for July National Ice Cream Month was a barrel of fun.

The small gifts she gives away are provided by the Southeast United Dairy Industry Association (SUDIA).

Will can't emphasize enough how important and helpful the dairy maids are to the success of a dairy princesss work.

Will says, 'You wouldn't need a princess to promote milk if there were no farmers."

So she applauds dairy farmers and is honored to promote their health-giving product — MILK.

Got it???

Will's successor to the crown will be named in January 2003.

Following is a dairy recipe contributed by Will:

Chicken Divan

2 cups cooked diced chicken
2 cans cream of mushroom soup (or chicken soup)
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup shredded sharp cheese
4 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup melted butter

Place chicken in baking dish. Combine soup, mayonnaise, and lemon juice. Stir until smooth. Pour over chicken. Sprinkle bread crumbs and cheese on top.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

In addition to fresh, cold milk, Joanie Will is also addicted to playing soccer. Without milk in her diet for strong bones and teeth, she wouldn't be as good at her game. She is pictured with her soccer ball and a one-year old pet Beagle named Lucy.

'Hustle' Describes Superior 4-H'er

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

PEQUEA (Lancaster Co.) — Lori Hess said that one of the H's in 4-H originally stood for "hustle" when the organization was founded 100 years ago.

"Hustle meant to serve the community at a moment's notice," Lori said.

Hustle is also what best represents Lori, recently named the county's superior 4-H'er, and a nine-year member of the program.

Lori hustled to meet deadlines in order to excel in school and community organizations. But hustle is not the only "H" that describes the 17-year-old. The 4-H creed that specifies pledging head. heart, hands, and health have been instrumental in developing her leadership skills and helping her excel in numerous areas.

As president of the Kids and Kows Club, vice president of the swine club, and secretary of the county 4-H club, she said that she uses her head to think clearly, logically, and in planning ahead when lining up speakers, serving refreshments, planning teaching sessions for the younger members, and ordering supplies needed for club work.

Her heart pledges loyal, kind, and sympathetic action toward others and especially younger members struggling in 4-H.

Although Lori strives to use her hands to excel in every project, she said that she has also learned that winning isn't everything.

She recalls that the first time she showed a calf, it wouldn't cooperate. The calf laid down in the show ring and the halter slipped off.

"Everything went wrong," Lori said, and ended up with her placing last in a long line of novices.

Although tempted to give up showing, Lori persevered. After nine years of showing, she has earned a table full of ribbons and trophies for fitting, showmanship, and breed.

Lori is the only child of

As if there weren't enough scary things in the world.

Like terrorists, lagging economics, floods, droughts, pestilence, uncontrollable diseases, bureaucrats and telemarketers.

Now we have the potential threat of destruction by "black holes."

Black holes are defined by astronomers and space scientists as collapsing objects in space so dense that their gravity draws in all material around them, including light.

Frankly, I can't even comprehend that. Good thing I'm a farmer and not a space scientist person, huh?

But, some very learned space scientists have reportedly found through humongously sensitive outer-space-detection gear two giant black holes in a distant galaxy. These learned space experts believe that the two newly-discovered black holes will "dance" with each other until they converge, then collapse with such force that they will send ripples throughout the universe. Those ripples will in turn, like tossing a pebble into our rejuvenating farm ponds, expand outward.

And ultimately ripple through more local neighborhoods in the universe, including our galaxy containing Earth. Which would no doubt create all manners of disruption, and possible end, to life as we know it today.

Reading that sobering news report set me to thinking about some preferred ways to spend one's remaining time, should such a cataclysmic event ever seem imminent.

Go to the mountains or camping with the family. Hike through the forests and along the streams, play games, read books with the grandkids, and have a hot dog roast with lots of marshmallows for dessert.

Take a trip with The Farmer to drive the Trans-Canadian highway and spend some time visiting Alaska. Then, head the other direction for the canyonlands of the Southwest. Swing around by Idaho on the way to visit our son.

Putter in the flowerbeds. Sit on the deck and read a good novel.

Take a hot air balloon ride. Go whale-watching.

Eat all the delicious goodies that give me guilt trips when I indulge: strawberries and ice cream, potato chips, doughnuts, cheeseburgers, pie (pecan, banana cream, lemon meringue, just to start), hot fudge sundaes and chocolate. Lots of chocolate.

Go outside and play with the grandkids.

Play fetch with Derra Dog. Cuddle the fat, fluffy kittens in the calf barn.

Watch the birds.

Find some meaningful way to make life a little more comfortable or pleasant for someone in pain or in need or grief-stricken or lonely.

But wait.

Those black holes are not expected to collapse for, oh say, millions, maybe even billions, of years from now. So they aren't likely a life-threatening event for any of us.

Besides, those same space scientists predict that, before the Black Hole Twins threat becomes imminent, our own sun is expected to explode into a nova and collapse into its own black hole first, making any future concerns totally irrelevant.

Okay, so we can all go back to worrying about the likes of terrorists, lagging economics, floods, droughts, pestilence, uncontrollable diseases, bureaucrats, and telemarketers.

And, meanwhile, cram as many of the fun things — and eating as many of the fun foods — as we can sensibly inject into our daily routines.

It never hurts to be prepared.

Hans Herr FFA Is One-Star Winner

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The National FFA Organization recently selected the Lancaster Mennonite High School Hans Herr FFA Chapter as a one-star winner in the National FFA Chapter Award program.

Chapter members who were recognized for the honor at the 75th National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky., this fall are senior Jay Lehman, son of Stephen and Mary Lehman, Holtwood; senior Dara Melrath, daughter of Dennis and Dana Melrath, Oxford; senior Kevin Shaiebly, son of Nelson Shaiebly, Conestoga, and Sandra Shaiebly, Mountville; and junior Philip Weiler, son of John and Karen Weiler, Ephrata. Teacher Lem Metzler served as their adviser.

Lancaster Mennonite's Hans Herr Chapter is one of 57 chapters selected from a pool of more than 500 candidates nationwide ranked as a one-star winner. The award program is sponsored by Cargill and Land O'Lakes Foundation as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

In other Hans Herr news, three chapter members participated in the 2002 National FFA Marketing Plan Career Development Event during the national convention. They are Mary Nickle (2002 LMS graduate), daughter of James and Sharon Nottingham; Dara Melrath; and Philip Weiler. The marketing plan event is one of 23 national events that use the fun of competition to connect classroom learning and careers.

What To Do About Gifts?

About a month ago our first and second grade boys started talking about the holidays and you guessed it, their thoughts immediately turned to gifts and you know who.

Lucky for Russell and I, this was the first year that the "I wants" really set in. We've all heard them as our children announce to us everything that they want and expect to receive. After a few days of this, we adults decided to bring this to closure!

We took a Sunday afternoon and the boys practiced their spelling and writing skills as they each wrote their list. Well as you can imagine the lists went on and on.

It was very convenient for us to remind the boys that just a few gifts would be good since we need to share so all children get some gifts. Russell encouraged the boys to prioritize the items on their list and number their top three choices.

The first question out of the oldest one's mouth was "What do you mean prioritize?"

When that lesson was over they very reluctantly made some hard decisions and then discussed between themselves just where they should let their lists so Santa would see them.

These days Russell and I are constantly reminding ourselves that we are role models for how the boys view and understand the world around them and interpret relationships.

At out house, we try to downplay gifts and encourage remembering the true meaning of the holiday season.

Money can't buy happiness. Boy — is that a hard lesson for even us adults!

Do you sometimes feel that the holidays are consuming you as you scurry around? There's still time to step back and look at this season of the year with a new perspective!

Consider simplifying your holiday season and deciding what are the truly important traditions for your family. Talk with the other adults in your family to get some feedback. Usually it's the adults, not the children who have the strongest arguments for lavish holidays.

Our children think the best part of the holidays is when Russell's 10 brothers and sisters and their families gather for the Annual Redding Christmas Party. There are lots of children of every age, and for a child that spells a grand time.

Consider your gift giving practices. It's hard to choose gifts for some family members who seem to have everything. This year consider a gift of time. This gift will show how much you care because you took the time to choose something personalized just for the receiver!

Make up a small certificate that might read like this: In appreciation for all you do for those around you, I'm proud to give you .... This gift can be redeemed at any time during the year by calling me and arranging a convenient time. Then sign your name.

Here are some gift of time ideas. What about a pie or cookies, a homemade dinner delivered to the recipient's house, a car washing, leaf raking, snow shoveling, an evening of child care, offer a particular talent such as some gardening help, time to help get a genealogy started or a hair cut.

One year Russell and I gave my parents an old blue canning jar full of "gifts of time" slips. Each slip was lovingly chosen for the jar and we'll admit many related to some family joke.

When the gift was given, Mom and Dad enjoyed many laughs as they read each slip. We included numerous slips for helping to bale and unload hay good for the hottest day of the summer, helping to rope calves for dehorning and castrating, a batch of homemade ice cream, a hot meal at a moments notice with us at our house when mom had to work, help in planting the corn patch, a father-daughter day hunting deer, help picking strawberries . . . well I think you get the point.

Still looking for some gift idea, consider a gift of experience. Give some one you care about the chance to try something new. These types of gifts provide memories for a lifetime. Teach someone how to hunt, make jelly, make a stool, sew, knit, play a musical instrument, or a dance.

Bring a smile to your loved one's face. Give the gift of time and thought. Happy holidays.

BEST TURKEY SOUP

After all the meat is removed, break carcass into pieces and place in large stock pot. Add 3 quarts of water and bring to bowl. Skim off the foam and let simmer for about 2 hours.

In another stock pot, place a strainer and pour turkey stock in. Let cool and remove any meat that may still be left on carcass and place in stock.

To this stock add:
1 cup chopped onions
1 cup chopped carrots
1 cup chopped celery
1 tablespoon parsley
1 tablespoon dill weed
2 teaspoons salt or to taste
Pepper to taste

Let simmer for another hour. Serve with rice or fine noodles and hot homemade bread.

I usually reserve turkey meat and chop it and add to soup. Perfect for a cold winter nights.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My many houseplants seem to soak up water so fast and need to be watered quite often. My husband received several dish gardens during his hospitalization and they added to my collection. I keep starting new plants as older ones die. It keeps me busy tending almost 100 plants during the cold months.

Sometimes I wonder how things can get dusty behind closed glass doors. Dishes need to be washed and shelves dusted more often than I'm willing to do it. After all, there are so many more interesting things to do like reading a magazine or a newspaper.

And it is nice to get out of the house now and then — not only on Sunday. One day I taught our Bible Study group, and another day I attended a women's luncheon at our church. It is pleasant to eat with friends.

The other Saturday I took a bus tour of Landis Homes and farms. The 1728 Snavely-Landis house in Manheim Township is the second oldest house in Lancaster County. At one time it was used for worship by a Mennonite congregation. It has a Bible cabinet built into the two-foot stone wall, a built-in jelly cupboard, a large arch cellar, and an attic smokehouse.

We also visited the Mennonite Historical Society where we saw their archives. The trip started and ended at Landis Homes on the farm of my grandfather, Benjamin R. Landis. It was a rainy day but the trip was quite worthwhile if only to renew acquaintances with long lost cousins. Some of them came from other states to view the homes of their ancestors.

Is 'White Chocolate' Really Chocolate?

COLUMBUS, Ohio — According to the government, white chocolate really isn't anything. That is, white chocolate doesn't yet have an official 'Standard of Identity" recognized by the Food and Drug Administration.

Temporary permits to market "white chocolate" products have been issued since late 1993, but the agency hasn't yet approved a final standard definition of "white chocolate."

But chocolate experts know what "white chocolate" is, and it doesn't seem to quite add up to being chocolate. White chocolate is typically a blend of cocoa butter, milk, sugar and possibly some flavorings.

Real chocolate must contain chocolate liquor. Chocolate liquor isn't alcohol — but that's what they call it anyway. Chocolate liquor is what you get when you grind up roasted cocoa beans and is basically a mixture of cocoa butter and cocoa powder. The mixture contains so much fat that when the beans are ground up, the mixture becomes a thick liquid — chocolate liquor.

That liquid can be poured into molds and allowed to solidify. That's what is known as unsweetened chocolate. Or, the solids can be separated from the fat, the results are called cocoa powder and cocoa butter.

Real chocolate contains the whole kit and caboodle from the cocoa bean. White chocolate, as mentioned above, contains just the cocoa butter.

Interestingly, white chocolate doesn't keep as long as regular chocolate. Although cocoa butter is known for its stability, something in the cocoa solids seems to help prevent the milk in milk chocolate from going rancid over time. White chocolate doesn't have as long of a shelf life.

Unfortunately for chocolate-lovers, cocoa butter has very little 'chocolate" flavor. But truth be told, white chocolate aficionados exist out there, and they wouldn't trade their pale sweets for any of their semisweet-, milk- or dark-chocolate cousins.

However, they shouldn't think they're getting a bargain as far as fat and calories are concerned. White chocolate treats contain just about the same number of calories and grams of fat as "real" chocolate does. As with any food grouped at the tip of the Food Pyramid, enjoy in moderation, in cooperation with a balanced diet.

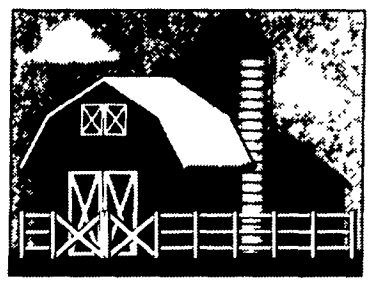
Lehigh County Conservation District To Present Awards

FOGELSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — The Lehigh County Conservation District will present its Annual "Outstanding Conservation Farmer of the Year" and "Outstanding Conservation Educator of the Year" awards for 2002, Dec. 13 at the Seipstown Grange, 8501 Claussville Road, Fogelsville, at 7:15 p.m.

The Conservation District has selected Martin and Glenda Bennicoff to receive the 2002 Conservation Farmer of the Year Award. The Bennicoff's, New Tripoli, are being recognized for their efforts to implement and maintain soil conservation practices and structures on their farm.

Dr. Robert Kotran, high school teacher at William Allen High School, has been chosen as the 2002 Conservation Educator of the Year. Dr. Kotran, Northampton, was chosen because of his efforts to teach environmental and conservation related subjects to his students.



What Children Need To Know To Start School

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — All child care providers and interested parents can participate in the workshop, What Children Need To Know To Start School, scheduled Thursday, December 12, 7 p.m.-9 p.m., at the Berks County Ag Center in Leesport.

According to Sue Giachero, family living agent in Berks County, studies have shown there's a wide variation between what parents think children need to know and what kindergarten teachers expect. The workshop will focus on teacher expectations and what childcare providers and parents can do to prepare children to meet these expectations.

The workshop is part of a statewide Better Kid Care child care provider training program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension and partially funded by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, and the Pennsylvania Pathways training system.

Childcare providers can receive two Department of Public Welfare training credits for participating in the workshop. Continuing Education Credits (CEUs) and Act 48 hours are also available.

For more information on the program, support materials and other services from "Better Kid Care Program," call Sue Giachero at (610) 378-1327. Visit the Better Kid Care Website at www.betterkidcare.psu.edu.

Better Than The First Time

GRAMPA'S HOMEMADE TURKEY SOUP

5 cups turkey broth
3 stalks celery, cut into 1-inch pieces
2 large potatoes, peeled and quartered
2 carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 onion, quartered
1 cup noodles, uncooked
2 cups turkey, cooked and cubed

In a five-quart saucepan, combine first five ingredients. Over high heat bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for one hour.

Stir in noodles and turkey meat. Simmer until noodles are done and meat is heated through. Serves 8.

TURKEY TETRAZZINI

3 cups leftover turkey, chopped

Cook:

½ pound spaghetti pasta

Saute ¾ pound sliced mushrooms. To the mushrooms, add 3 tablespoons dry white wine. Make a sauce of the following ingredients:

3 tablespoons butter or turkey fat
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups turkey broth

Season to taste. Remove from heat. Stir in 1 cup heated heavy whipping cream. Heat oven to 375 degrees. Add half the sauce to turkey. Add the remaining half to pasta and mushrooms. Layer in greased casserole or stir all together. Top with Parmesan cheese, grated. Bake until browned and heated.

1 can chicken broth
1 cup milk
1 can cream of chicken soup
2½ cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
5 cups cooked, cooled rice (leftover is fine to use)
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 cup frozen peas and carrots

Saute onions and celery in melted butter in a Dutch oven. Add broth, milk, and soup. Heat thoroughly. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Turn down heat and simmer to enhance flavor.

MONTE CRISTO SANDWICH WITH SWEET MUSTARD SAUCE

For sauce:

¼ cup red currant jelly
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 tablespoon water

For sandwiches:

⅔ cup egg substitute
½ cup fat-free milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
4 slices cooked turkey breast
4 slices cooked ham
4 slices Swiss cheese
8 slices white bread
Cooking spray
1½ teaspoons powdered sugar

To prepare sauce: Combine first four ingredients in small saucepan over low heat, stirring well with a whisk. Cook until jelly melts.

To prepare sandwiches: Combine egg substitute, milk, salt, and pepper in a shallow dish.

Place one slice each of turkey, ham, and cheese on each of four bread slices. Top with remaining bread slices. Dip both sides of each sandwich into the egg substitute mixture. Place sandwiches in a large nonstick skillet coated with cooking spray over medium-high heat. Reduce heat to medium; cook 3 minutes on each side or until sandwiches are golden. Sprinkle sandwiches with powdered sugar. Serve sandwiches with sauce. Serving size: 1 sandwich and 2 tablespoons sauce.

Cooking Light

TURKEY SANDWICHES WITH CRANBERRY RELISH

Cranberry relish
4 slices bread, toasted
6-ounces sliced roasted turkey
Salt and freshly ground pepper
8 scallions, green part only
4 romaine lettuce leaves

Spread two slices bread with about 1½ tablespoons each of the relish. Layer the turkey on the relish and season with salt and pepper. Top with scallions, romaine lettuce, and remaining bread. Sandwiches can be refrigerated up to three hours.

SPINACH, TURKEY SALAD WITH CUCUMBER, FETA DRESSING

1 cucumber, peeled, halved lengthwise, seeded
⅓ cup plain yogurt
¼ cup olive oil
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped fresh dill
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
¼ pound feta cheese, crumbled
3½ quarts spinach, stems removed, leaves washed well
1½ pounds cooked turkey, cut into strips
2 cups quartered cherry tomatoes

In a blender or food processor, combine 1 cucumber half, the yogurt, oil, vinegar, dill, ¼ teaspoon salt, and pepper. Blend or process until smooth. Chop the remaining cucumber and add to the blender or food processor along with the feta. Pulse once or twice just to combine.

In a large glass or stainless steel bowl, combine spinach, turkey, tomatoes, and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt. Toss salad with dressing.

Variations: Use chopped fresh oregano instead of dill. Add half a cup of Greek olives.

BEST EVER TURKEY AND RICE SOUP

Bones, trimmings from 1 turkey
5 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1 bay leaf
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
2 medium carrots, sliced
1 cup whole kernel corn
1 cup chopped onion
1 stalk celery, sliced
½ cup uncooked rice
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Combine turkey, water, salt, bay leaf, poultry seasoning, and pepper in Dutch oven or large saucepan; bring to a boil. Lower heat to simmer and cook, covered, 3 to 4 hours. Remove bones; cut off meat and return meat to broth. Add carrots, corn, onion, celery, and rice to broth. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes or until rice and vegetables are tender. Garnish with parsley. Serves 4.

GOURMET POTATOES

3½ quarts peeled, cooked potatoes, grated or mashed
3 cups White American cheese, grated
½ cup butter
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups milk

Heat milk. Add butter, pepper, and salt. Pour over shredded or mashed potatoes. Add cheese and stir until mixed. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until heated through. Serve with buttered bread crumbs.

When preparing these gourmet potatoes to serve the following day, chill thoroughly as soon as possible as they spoil easily.

Contributor writes that her family sells lots of potatoes at their produce stand and still have six large bins left to sell during winter months.

These can be made ahead and served. You can also use leftover mashed potatoes instead of grated, omit salt and pepper, and slightly reduce the amount of milk and butter added, taking into consideration what was added to the original mashed potatoes.

QUICK TURKEY DIVAN

4 cups leftover stuffing
2 cups cooked broccoli cuts
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
1 can condensed golden corn soup
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup milk
4-ounces sliced mushrooms (optional)

Spoon leftover stuffing in 2-quart oblong baking dish. Arrange broccoli and turkey over stuffing. In small bowl, combine soup, ½ cheese, milk, and mushrooms; pour over broccoli and turkey. Sprinkle remaining ½ cup cheese over soup mixture.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until hot. Makes about 7½ cups or 6 servings.

Featured Recipe

The Thanksgiving feast is over. Although some people enjoy warmed up leftovers, others want creative ways to serve leftovers that appear to be the first time served. Today's selection gives you many options.

Here is a recipe from the American Egg Board that uses both mashed potatoes and turkey leftovers.

SUPPER TART

6 eggs, divided
½ teaspoon onion salt
2 cups mashed potatoes, cooled slightly
1 cup thinly sliced leeks
2 tablespoons water
1 cup cooked turkey, cubed
Skim milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dill sprigs, optional

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In medium bowl, beat together 1 egg and onion salt. Add potatoes and blend well. Spread mixture over bottom and up sides of lightly greased 9-inch pie plate or shallow baking dish.

In small covered saucepan over medium heat, cook leeks in water until tender, stirring occasionally, 8-10 minutes. Put turkey into measuring cup and fill with milk. Set aside. Stir turkey into leeks. Spoon mixture over crust. Beat together remaining eggs, lemon juice, and milk mixture. Carefully pour over leeks and turkey.

Bake until puffed and knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 30-40 minutes. Garnish with dill sprigs, if desired.

Gifts Of Love, Time

The month of December offers challenges and opportunities for Dads to interact with their children. Traditionally, in many households, Mom did the present buying, cookie baking, present wrapping, decorating...the list goes on and on. Dad's contribution was the outdoor decorations and paying the bills.

Today's Dad, whether custodial or non-custodial, wants and should be involved. Children want to do things with Dad, too. But how can this work?

First, recognize that most children want to spend time with a father who is willing to enjoy the child's company. Toys, presents, clothes — material things — are all doomed to eventual demise. Not so, are precious memories built through the 'growing years' when Dad and children share "time" and "love." Children want presents but they remember the time spent with Dad. So, let's begin to think about ways Dad and his children can enjoy each other's company.

In families where the children are elementary school age and younger, begin the search at the local library. The children's section in most libraries has numerous books for children on Christmas, Chanukah, Kwanza and winter. The children's librarian can help you select a book or two that you can read together. Here are a few suggested books to try: "The Polar Express" by Chris Van Allsburg, "A Child's Christmas in Wales" by Dylan Thomas, the "Hanukkha Mice" by Ronne Randall, and "Snowflake Kisses and Smiles" by Toni Trent Parker. Spent time every night to read a portion of the book together. Some Dads are great readers. Some can expand the story by asking questions to lore the children into the experience.

In some families, Dad and the children take turns reading the pages out loud. Other Dads may not be comfortable reading out loud, but they are great storytellers. Tell what it was like when you were a boy. It is okay to embellish a little.

Talk about "Christmas in the Dark Ages" of your youth. Add some humor. From ages, eight to 10 most children want to know what it was like when Dad was a boy at Christmas.

If reading isn't your bag, try making something together. It could be a present for someone else. Building a bluebird house is relatively easy. It is fun and also gives Dad a chance to begin teaching woodworking skills and safety to Jimmy or Suzie. Even children under age five can take part on a limited scale. It will take more time than if Dad did it by himself, but it is worth it. The process of building the item is much more valuable than the actual product. "We did this together is the goal."

For older children, a visit by Dad to a relative or friend in a nursing or personal care home is a good way to extend the value of caring. The visit doesn't have to be long. In most cases, one-half hour is long enough. Dad, child, and care home resident win in this situation. Dad serves as a role model for the child on what to do at a nursing home. After the visit, stop for a snack and talk about the visit. It could be a visit to remember.

Most holidays began as a celebration or commemoration of an event. At most of these celebrations, adults and children interact. Time, giving on one's self, and love are the joys of any holiday. Ask your child about his or her favorite part of celebrating a holiday. More often than not, the child will tell you about something you did together and not the video game, doll or CD he or she received. While it takes work and effort to make a holiday memorable, it is worth it. This year create a new tradition around a special time with Dad.

Ag Tag Available For Farm Trucks

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. — Agriculture plates are available from the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration and cost the owner $20 above the regular registration fee. QUESTION — Gloria Miller, Christiana, lost the recipe for mini upside down pineapple cake, which is made in cupcake pans. Anyone have it?

ANSWER — Evelyn Graver, New Market, Md., wanted a recipe for creamed cabbage. Here is a different recipe than the one previously printed. This is from Hazel Hann, Needmore.

Creamed Cabbage

1 head cabbage
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup water
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon flour
3 teaspoons sugar
1 cup cream
½ cup vinegar

Cut cabbage into fine pieces. In a saucepan, combine cabbage, salt, pepper, butter, and water. Steam until tender.

Combine beaten egg, flour, sugar, and cream. Pour over cabbage, and bring to a boil. Add vinegar and remove from heat immediately. Serve.

ANSWER — Gloria Mills, Williamstown, N.J., has two packages of Clear Jel, one is marked instant, and the other regular, for which she wanted instructions for usage. Thanks to Jackie for e-mailing that she uses Clear Jel in canning fruit pie filling. It's similiar to cornstarch but Clear Jel does not break down when making sauces or make pie filling runny.

Thanks to Cheryl Wenger, Womelsdorf, for sending these instructions and a recipe: For one pie, combine 3 tablespoons instant Clear Jel with ½ cup sugar. Add 1 cup water or fruit juice and combine with enough fruit for one pie. Add food coloring if desired. Chill and serve.

The regular Clear Jel is often called the cook type. Use as a clear thickner. Use ¼ cup Clear Jel to one quart liquid. Bring to a boil before adding Clear Jel. Cheryl finds that it works better to mix Clear Jel with a small amount of water before stirring into boiling liquid.

Fruit Salad

8 cups liquid (water or canned fruit juices)
¾ cup Clear Jel (not instant)
1 large box orange Jell-O
1 package unsweetened orange Kool-Aid
1 cup sugar
2 quarts mixed fruit

Bring 7 cups liquid and sugar to a boil. Stir in Clear Jel mixed with remaining cup of water. When thickened, remove from heat and add Jell-O and Kool-Aid. Allow to cool before adding fruit. Cheryl uses canned peaches, pears, oranges, pineapple, and grapes. Makes 2 dishes.

ANSWER — Thanks to Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville, for sending this unusual recipe.

Porridge From Alaska

Bring 2 cups water to a boil in shallow pan no more than one-inch deep. Throw a handful of raisins and some chopped nuts into the boiling water. Add 2 handfuls of old-fashioned oatmeal (not quick-cook) by sprinkling over top. Shake to even out. Simmer 10 minutes or until water is absorbed. Top with cream and brown sugar.

ANSWER — Rena Cummins, Conowingo, Md., sends this recipe that had been requested.

Cry Baby Cookies

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
½ cup molasses
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup strong hot coffee
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 cups raisins
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt

Pour coffee over raisins and baking soda; set aside. Cream sugar, butter, shortening, and eggs until light and fluffy. Add vinegar and molasses. Combine flour and spices, add alternately with coffee-raisin mixture. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 9-10 minutes.

ANSWER — Thanks to P. Ladik, Leechburg, for sending this recipe that had been requested by a reader.

Peanut Butter Gobs

2 cups brown sugar
½ cup butter, softened
⅓ cup peanut butter
2 eggs
2 teaspoons baking soda
3 tablespoons boiling water
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
Filling:
3 cups confectioners' sugar
½ cup peanut butter
¼ cup milk
1 tablespoon hot water

Dissolve baking soda in hot water. Cream brown sugar, peanut butter, and eggs. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Drop on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Beat filling ingredients together until fluffy. Spread between two cookies, sandwich style.

ANSWER — Thanks to a subscriber for sending in several versions of onion soup, which had been requested.

President Kennedy's Favorite Onion Soup

10 ounces onions, finely sliced
2 ounces butter
1 tablespoon flour
2½ pints beef stock
Salt and pepper to taste
French bread
Swiss cheese, shredded
Additional butter

Cook onions and butter in a heavy pot. When nicely browned, sprinkle with a spoonful of flour. Allow to brown a little longer, then add the beef stock and that salt and pepper. Cook 15 minutes. Slice the bread into ¼-inch thickness, butter lightly, and brown in oven. Put onion soup in casserole and sprinkle croutons on top, then a layer of shredded Swiss cheese, and a small piece of butter. Put under broiler until golden brown. Serves 6.

Cream Of Onion Soup Or Onion Veloute

Melt:
3 tablespoons butter
Add and saute until a golden brown:
1½ cups thinly sliced onions
Stir in:
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
Add:
4 cups milk or cream
Simmer, covered, until the onions are very tender. Add:
4 beaten egg yolks
Heat but do not boil. Season with:
Salt and paprika
Freshly grated nutmeg or Worcestershire sauce
Place in each cup:
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
Pour hot soup over parsley

ANSWER — Here are two recipes, which had been requested by Eleanor Heinsey, Denver. Thanks to several who answered this request.

Pineapple Carrot Cake

20-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups shredded carrots
4 eggs
3 cups flour
1 cup raisins
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugars until fluffy. Beat in eggs until blended. Add pineapple, carrot, spices, and vanilla. Combine dry ingredients and blend into mixture. Pour into a greased and floured 9x13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.
Icing:
8-ounces cream cheese
½ cup butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon lemon rind
1½ cups powdered sugar

Favorite Pineapple Carrot Cake

4 eggs
2 cups peeled, grated carrots
1 cup undrained, crushed pineapple
½ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup water
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
½ cup butter, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3-3½ cups confectioners' sugar, sifted

In a large mixing bowl, combine cake mix, eggs, carrots, pineapple with juice, oil, water, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Beat on low speed for 1 minute to blend, then on medium speed for 2 minutes.

Spread batter evenly in 13x9-inch cake pan, greased. Bake 35-40 minutes. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.
Frosting: In a large mixing bowl, beat cream cheese, butter, and vanilla on medium speed until fluffy. Gradually add confectioners' sugar, beating on medium speed until light and creamy. Add a little more confectioners' sugar if necessary to stiffen frosting.

ANSWER — Thanks to Shirley Orfanella, Quarryville, for sending this recipe, which had been requested by Linda Sexton, Home.

Pumpkin Fudge

1 cup milk
3 cups sugar
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
Pinch salt
½ cup cooked or canned pumpkin pulp
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon allspice

Combine milk, sugar, corn syrup, and salt in heavy pan. Cook over medium heat until it reaches boiling stage. Reduce heat to simmer and cook at 234 degrees. Remove from heat and beat in pumpkin, butter, vanilla, and allspice. Mix and beat with wooden spoon until glossy. Pour into greased stoneware platter until cool.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Lebanon County 4-H Rabbit And Cavy Club

The Lebanon County 4-H Rabbit and Cavy club met November 13.

The following officers were elected: president, Chris Werner; vice president, Miranda Fasnacht; secretary, Jessie Stump; treasurer, Alex Werner; scrapbook, Leon Stump; and news reporter, Amber Lutz.

Featured in the program was Peg Hailey, an A.R.B.A. rabbit and cavy judge, who conducted a workshop on judging rabbits.

Plans were finalized for the club's Christmas party, Dec. 5.

In the planning stage is the Spring Rabbit and Cavy Show scheduled for April 5. A youth and open show is also being planned for that date.

A discussion took place on the display booth and guidelines for members who will be showing rabbits at the Harrisburg State Farm Show.

Information for the youth contests at the Pennsylvania State Rabbit Convention was distributed for anyone interested in competing. The Pennsylvania SRBA State Convention is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 1, and Sunday, Feb. 2, 2003, at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds.

Cumberland County 4-H Light Horse And Pony Club

The Cumberland County 4-H Light Horse and Pony Club is sponsoring a benefit Tack and Horse Related Flea Market Sat., Nov. 23 at the lower level of the Carlisle livestock market during the hours of 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A food stand will be available also during these times. The Carlisle Livestock Market is easily accessed off I-81, Exit 44, onto Allen Road then left onto Alexander Spring Road.

All monies received from the stall space rental will be benefiting 4-H leader Maynard Long, a horse trainer, who was involved in a horse accident in September and has spent several weeks in the Hershey Medical Center.

Susquehanna County 4-H Horse Show Winners

Susquehanna County 4-H horse members received 25 awards at the 43rd annual State 4-H Horse Show October 25-27 at the State Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, Pa.

County winners in 4-H performance classes were: Amber and Ashley Gaffey and Kyle Moyer placing seventh in county team; Amber and Ashley Gaffey placing fourth in pleasure pairs; Angelea Shelp placing 10th in stock seat equitation Jr. and Sofia DeLousia placing fifth in saddle seat equitation junior.

In 4-H horse production classes, members breed and raise their own project animal. Local winners were: first place-Patricia Albrecht in Hunter type yearling filly; third place-Kaitlynn Shultz in miniature horse yearling filly; third place-Angalea Shelp in paint 2-year-old filly; fifth place-Megan Smith in quarter horse colt/gelding of this year; third place-Megan Smith in stock type horse yearling filly/2-year-old filly.

Several other Susquehanna County horse club members received recognition in the performance and production classes in the state contest. They were: Kyle Moyer, Jessica Sartell, Tiffany Carpenter and Tabitha Olszewski.

The First and Only Highly Detailed Map of Its Kind

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible.. a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology -- the STREAM MAP OF OHIO was created.

The 3-foot-by-5-foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus lakes The 3 1/2-foot-by-4 1/2-foot color map shows virtually all of the 65,000 miles of New York streams plus lakes The 3-foot-by-4-foot color map shows virtually all of the 36,000 miles of New England streams plus lakes The 2 1/2-foot-by-3-foot color map shows virtually all of the 8,300 miles of New Jersey streams plus lakes The 3-foot-by-3-foot color map shows virtually all of the 29,000 miles of Ohio streams plus lakes The 2-foot-by-3 1/2-foot color map shows virtually all of the 12,000 miles of Maryland/Delaware streams plus lakes

Professor Higbee's RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."
—John Pitarres, OBSERVER-DISPATCH, Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake...then 'Professor Higbee's Stream Maps' are without question the finest."
—Howard Brant, THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."
—Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT, Johnstown

Logan Wins Registered Holstein Heifer

COCHRANTOWN (Crawford Co.) — Logan Snodgrass, son of Ron and Diane Snodgrass of Adamsville, has won a registered Holstein heifer calf from the Crawford County Holstein Club.

Competing with 10 other youths, Snodgrass was chosen the winner by writing the best essay of 100 words or less about why he would like to own a calf and how he would care for it. Each contestant was also interviewed by the contest judges.

The registered heifer calf which Snodgrass received was donated by Robert and Candace Morrell of Ebb-tide Holsteins, Cochrantown.

Snodgrass must breed his heifer calf to a registered Holstein bull and the first registered heifer calf must be given back to the club to be donated to another youth.

The contest is open to any Crawford County youth involved in the Junior Holstein club or 4-H between the ages of 8 and 13 by January 1 of contest year. Crawford County Holstein breeders who are interested in donating a calf for next year's contest should contact any Holstein club director.

Nieces Help Aunt Promote Milk

SOUTH ALBUM (Susquehanna Co.) — Karin Mowry, a Susquehanna County Dairy Maid, served cheese and crackers at an event a Lake Verex. Karin also did a milk mustache promotion to remind the public to consume more milk because of all the good nutrients contained in milk.

Karin, 11, is the daughter of George and Pat Mowry. She has the help of her three little nieces.

Although they are to young to be Dairy Maids Abigail and Justine Johns and Amanda Mowry like to help their Aunt Karin by accompanying her to dairy promotions.

Abigail, 2, and Justine, 3, are the daughters of Tom and Heather Johns. Amanda, 3, is the daughter of Alex and Tammy Mowry who operate the family dairy farm.

The Susquehanna Dairy Court does as many promotions as they can to help educate the public on the importance of milk and milk products.

Help their efforts to support local farmers by making sure you've 'got milk.'

Children's Activity Book Highlights Longwood Gardens

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Longwood Gardens, the renowned horticultural display garden near Kennett Square, has published a new Children's Activity Book.

Longwood Gardens near Kennett Square celebrates the season with a holiday spectacle considered "the best Christmas display in the world" by London's Financial Times. The display runs Nov. 28 through Jan. 5. Thousands of brilliant poinsettias, towering trees, fragrant flowers, and exotic plants fill four acres of gardens inside Longwood's heated Conservatory. Daily concerts, fountain shows, and evening light displays add to the holiday magic.

For information, call (610) 388-1000, or visit online at www.longwoodgardens.org.

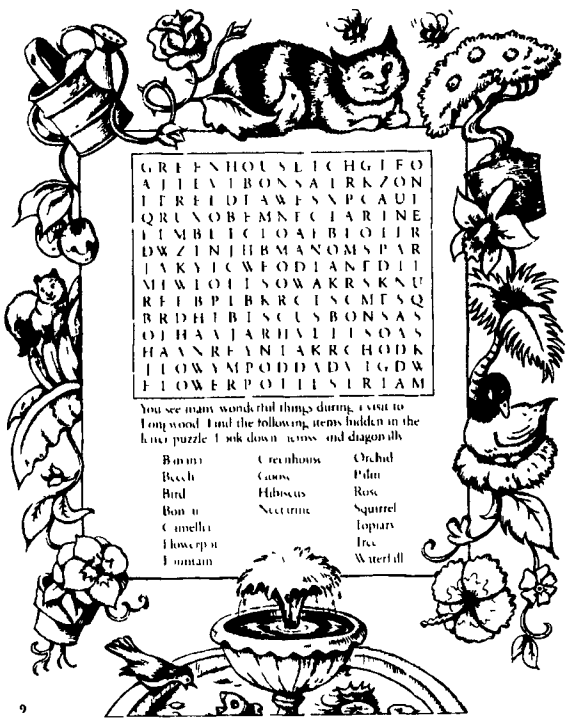
The 18-page softbound publication features activities ranging from seek-and-finds to crossword puzzles for children 2-8 years. The entire publication is also a coloring book that highlights various Longwood Garden features and facts with playful illustrations depicting the flora and fauna children may see when they visit.

The illustrations and layout are by free-lance illustrator Lucy Corvino. Longwood's Planning and Design Specialist Tres Fromme served as the conceptual designer and art director. He is excited about the book's potential to enrich young visitors' enjoyment of the Gardens: "It's a great way to introduce kids to the Gardens before they come, and a fun souvenir of their visit when they go home."

The Children's Activity Book is available from the Longwood Gardens Shop for $1.95 plus tax and shipping. To order, call the Longwood Gardens Shop at (610) 388-1000, ext. 470.



CATS in the GARDEN
Cats not only live at Longwood, they work here too! When you see them as you walk in the gardens, please don't distract them from their work of chasing away mice. See how many pictures of cats you can find in this book. Look carefully, some pages have more than one cat!

Here are two pages from the booklet for you to color. The actual page is much larger.

'Hustle' Describes Superior 4-H'er

Charles and Lois Hess. Her mother grew up as a member of the 4-H sewing club and served as a leader for 10 years before Lori was born. But Lori is the first family member to show cattle at local, county, district, and state levels.

"When I first joined 4-H, I wanted to be able to pick out my own cow whenever I looked out the window and saw the cows grazing in the meadow," Lori said of her decision to raise Brown Swiss.

Her mother and dad classify Brown Swiss as pets.

"Holsteins don't get pampered like them (Brown Swiss)," Charles said. But he concedes that he likes Brown Swiss although they are stubborn.

"The calves won't drink from a bucket, and you really need to work with them to keep them alive. But the cows are more personable than Holsteins," Hess explained.

The 153-acre farm in the southern end of Lancaster County has been in Lori's father's side of the family since 1915. Several generations have always lived in the rambling farmhouse, which houses three generations. He remembers 23 family members regularly sat at the table when he was growing up.

He remembers butchering in the farmhouse basement and his mother baking 500 fastnachs to take to Central Market.

"That was when a trolley came through here, and she carried cheese and butter on the trolley to sell at the market," Charles said.

Charles and his wife purchased the farm one year before Lori was born. His sister continues to help with the daily milking and care of 50 Holsteins, and Lori has added eight Brown Swiss and one Red and White to the string.

Lori is an FFA member at Penn Manor High School where she explores an independent study program. For research, she grows plants and vegetables in greenhouses and compares the growth in different types of soils.

Lori is a member of the National Honor Society, orchestra for school and county, and the school musical.

This is her first year as a dairy ambassador with the Lancaster County Dairy Princess Promotion Services.

She plans to attend the National 4-H Congress this month.

Next summer, Lori plans to accompany the American Music Abroad program to play the violin. She explained that participants need to be invited by their music directors.

"We'll play in the old cathedrals," Lori said in anticipation of the sound that will resonate in the centuries-old churches.

She also serves as a docent for Conestoga Historical Society, and has been the clerk at the 4-H auction.

Lori said that she has had outstanding club leaders in 4-H.

"I couldn't have done it without my family either," Lori said. Her Aunt Mary has served as the cow washer, her dad as trucker for the shows, and her mom as chauffeur.

Lori likes working with the cows but doesn't enjoy fieldwork. She hopes to return to the family farm after earning a teaching degree from Millersville University. Lori heard that she was accepted at Millersville on the day of this interview.

One thing she knows for certain, she said, "I'll definitely stay in 4-H. I can't get out. It's such a big part of my life. It's offered me a world of opportunity."

Lori Hess holds Jatina, a 4-year-old Brown Swiss, center. Her mother Lois holds Jill, Lori's first 4-H animal, and her dad Charlie with Gail, a 3-year-old.

Lori chose Brown Swiss because she wanted to be able to look out of the window and be able to pick her cows out of the herd grazing on the hillside.

Lori displays her senior high school project, which highlights her 4-H dairy beef project. When she presented her project before school teachers judging the project, it was the first time that many of them became aware of the work that went into the project.

West Snyder FFA Grad Earns American Degree

At the 75th National FFA Convention, Jennifer McWilliams, a member of the West Snyder FFA Chapter, was awarded the American FFA Degree. The American Degree is the highest award the National FFA Organization can bestow upon its members. By earning this degree, Jennifer is one of a select group of individuals to be recognized for years of academic and professional excellence. The honor was presented on Nov. 2 in Louisville, Ky.

The American FFA Degree recognized demonstrated leadership ability and outstanding achievements in agricultural business, production, processing, or service programs. To be eligible, members must have earned and productively invested $7,500 through a supervised agricultural experience (SAE) program in which they start, own, or hold a professional position in an existing agriculture enterprise. Jennifer was a former Chapter and SUN Area FFA president. Her SAE project has included a dairy herd.

Each award recipient receives a gold American FFA Degree key, certificate, and an ID card. Out of 461,043 FFA members nation, Jennifer was one of only 2,556 to be recognized for this honor in 2002.

West Snyder FFA Members At State Farm-City Day

At the request of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA), seven members of the West Snyder FFA Chapter participated in the Farm-City Day activities on Friday, Oct. 4, at the PDA building.

Farm-City Day is an annual event designed to introduce agriculture literacy to elementary children from city schools. Over 2,000 children from various Harrisburg City schools and the surrounding area participated in the event which was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

West Snyder FFA members who participated in the event were Cameron Hackenberg, Kelly Bedlyon, Shane Kreamer, Brad Novinger, Jeremy Roush, Tyler Miller, and Jeremy Waite.

Cameron Hackenberg, Kelly Bedlyon, and Brad Novinger developed a home chemical display in cooperation with the Penn State Pesticide Education Program.

Jeremy Roush, Tyler Miller, Shane Kreamer, and Jeremy Waite conducted a lawn mower safety demonstration. Using hot dogs on the lawn, the FFA members demonstrated that a foot or hand could easily be cut in a lawn mower accident.

New Jersey's State FFA Best Of Show

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — New Jersey's State FFA Association was one of five associations awarded Best of Show at the National FFA Agricultural Career Show.

New Jersey, along with California, Illinois, Louisiana, and Wisconsin, was honored for developing an effective display that provided useful information to the nearly 46,000 FFA members and career show attendees from across the nation.

The exhibit was judged on display attributes such as quality, creativity and message effectiveness, as well as the communication skills of its student staff.

Forty-five state FFA associations exhibited in the career show's Hall of States.

The National Agricultural Career Show is an integral part of the National FFA Convention and highlights career opportunities for high school students who have an interest in agriculture. Representatives of over 330 agribusinesses, universities and industry associations were available to meet with students throughout the three-day event, Oct. 30 through Nov. 1, at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center.

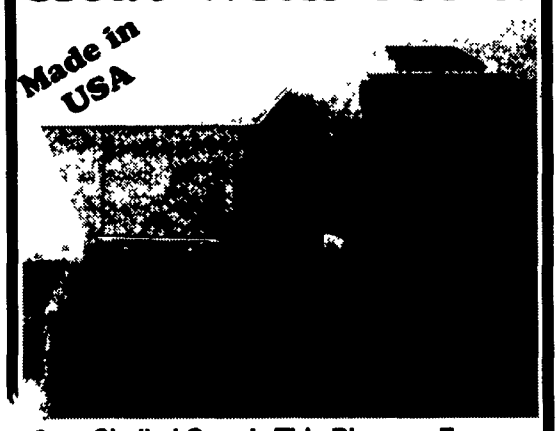
Heat with Corn!



Burn Shelled Corn In This Biomass Furnace

A BETTER ALTERNATIVE

The corn burning furnace has many advantages over wood and coal heat. The large storage bin holds up to 14 bushels of fuel, which is automatically fed into the combustion chamber as needed. There's no need to load the furnace several times a day. The use of corn also eliminates the bark mess, insects, splinters, and handling problems connected with the use of wood fuel, and the dust and dirt from coal. UL Approved.

Old Lace, Bobbins, Shuttles Thrill Collectors

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — "I thought I was getting into a cheap hobby when I started tatting — just shuttles and thread," said Beth Eddowes, Enola. "No one told me that when I saw a Victorian shuttle of tortoiseshell inlaid with gold that I would need to have it."

That's how many hobbyists get drawn into collecting antiques that pertain to their pastimes. First, they love the craft, then they become mesmerized by the history surrounding the skill.

Eddowes and other members of the Keystone Lace Guild gathered recently to show off cherished old pieces related to their intricate craft.

"I just love the feel of these," Eddowes said of her collection of more than 200 different styles of bobbins.

She has intricate and plain designs that date back to Civil War times. Her collection includes bobbins made of sterling silver, mother of pearl, ivory, rubber, old plastics, and celluloid.

The items invoke a bit of mystery, such as that surrounding a Lydia Pinkham bobbin. Between 1917-1921, Pinkham handed out bobbins with her picture as advertisement for her popular, cure-all tonic. The tonic is said to have had a high alcohol content, and while it is no longer sold today, Pinkham's bobbins, made of French ivory celluloid, are sought after by collectors and sell for about $100.

A carved ivory bobbin exudes an aura of finery, but Eddowes said the carved ivory is so thin, only ⅛-inch, which makes it totally impractical to use. But that doesn't impede its value of $500.

Debra Bender, York Haven, started collecting lace and is earning a master's degree in humanities that helps her in become certified to determine the age of fibers.

Ask Eddowes to show her favorite bobbin, and she scowls and retorts, "That's like asking a mother of more than one child to name her favorite."

The bobbins or spools that hold thread for lacemaking were used mostly by the lower class, who made the lace for the upper class society.

Bobbin Brown made bobbins during the mid-1800s. Those with mother and baby inside are of more value. The baby bobbin is not removable but makes a pleasant sound as it is in use. In fact, many of the bobbins have beads and bangles attached. The click and rattle of these as a skilled tatter uses them creates a lovely, pleasing rhythm.

"But the seamstresses in Belgium wouldn't be caught dead with spangles on their bobbins. They think spangles and beads encumber them and get stuck in their work (threads)," said Bender, who traveled to many European countries to search for pieces she loves. Instead, the Belgiums use bobbins fashioned from bone, wood, glass, and ivory.

Some of that old lace made during the Civil War period belongs to Debra Bender.

The elaborate handmade bobbin lace was made by interlacing thread around small notched pins or bobbins stuck into a pillow

While traveling in England, Bender, York Haven, contacted a lace group in the area, and was thrilled with the many patterns and bobbins she acquired in her travels.

In England, she said, learning lace making is part of the educational system. Students can actually earn a certificate in it that is equivalent to an art degree in America.

Bender collects old pieces of lace. She considers herself fortunate to have heard that the state museum was decommissioning some of its holdings. Bender bid at the auction and acquired 22 layers of lace samples for only $50. One of the samples, a black chantilly lappet, is estimated to have a $300 value.

Many pieces of old lace are made with 12-15 different motifs. According to Bender, a typical seamstress specialized in one motif that she did throughout life to supplement her husband's farm income. It was sort of like a production line, where seamstresses made the same pattern over and over. The motifs were gathered from the different farm women and stitched together by a dressmaker. The workmanship in the pieces is so fine that it is impossible to detect where the dif

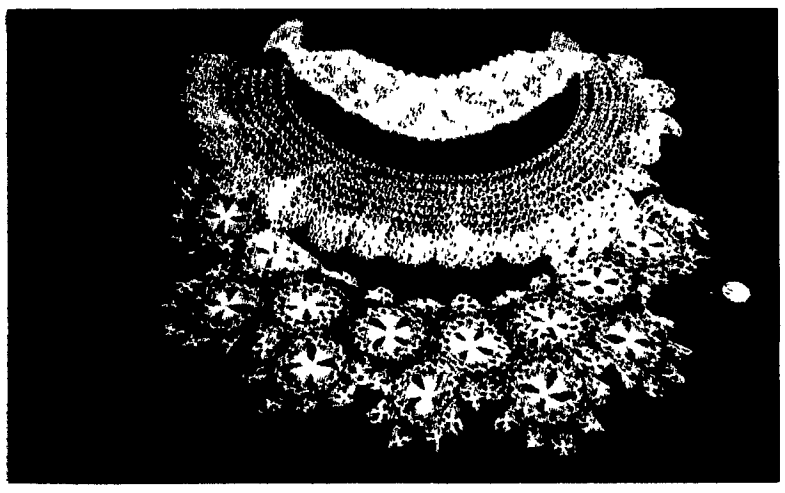
This shows the progression of lacemaking from fisherman's knotted lace (made during biblical times), grid filet lace, and crochet filet.

Beth Eddowes, Enola, shows off some of her 200-bobbin collection. Ask Eddowes to show her favorite bobbin, and she scowls and retorts, "That's like asking a mother of more than one child to name her favorite."



These lace collar and cuffs from the 18th century were detachable to enable the wearer to use them with different outfits.

After Sharon Hibsham, Myerstown, inherited this collection, she joined the Keystone Lace Guild to learn how to use them.

Bender had the museum lace for a number of years before meeting a person who helped her catalog it according to origins and types. Bender is also working on a master's degree in humanities. She assists in cataloging a collection of fibers for Winterthur Museum.

Not all collectors get their start with the craft. Sharon Hibsham, Myerstown, inherited a collection of bobbins from an Arizona friend.

"I had them for several years before I learned how to use them," she said of the reason she joined the Guild.

Shuttles are devices used to hold the thread in tatting. Bobbins, lace, and other items pertaining to sewing can be found at auctions. Several Guild members confessed to having an addiction to eBay auctions.

Karen Wattai said that her affinity is for thread, especially the old linen varieties.

Her philosophy is "he who dies with the most thread, wins."

This salesman's sample shows the styles that could be purchased when machine lace become popular in England during the early 1900s.

Poignant Civil War Letter Reveals Heartbreak, Dedication To Duty, Honor

HATFIELD (Montgomery Co.) — On December 12, the Alderfer Auction Company will offer an important collection of letters, books and photographs related to the military career of General George Gordan Meade "The Hero of Gettysburg." In this collection is an interesting and poignant letter from Charles Stone requesting his own execution.

General Charles P. Stone was an officer to whom duty and honor were important. Stone graduated from the bastion of honor, the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1845. Soon after graduation he joined the U.S. forces that were engaged in the war against Mexico. For his bravery in battle, he won two promotions.

In 1861, as the storm clouds of discontent rose on the horizon and pushed our country closer to Civil War, Stone was assigned as Inspector General of Washington DC. In this position, he was responsible for the safety of the Capitol and also incoming President Abraham Lincoln.

As the Civil War began Stone was promoted to General and served his country as a battlefield commander. During the Battle of Ball's Bluff, Edward Baker, an officer serving with Stone, led a foolhardy charge that resulted in numerous casualties including the death of Baker. Baker was also a United States Senator and many politicians called for an investigation into this catastrophe.

Many people blamed Stone in private, and for the press Stone became a scapegoat. At midnight on February 8, 1862, military authorities entered Stone's headquarters, arrested him, and moved him to a military prison in New York. Here he was held for 189 days, mostly in solitary confinement, with no charges being filed. When released, Stone was never given a reason for his arrest or internment.

Stone returned to the battlefield serving in several engagements in the deep South. In 1864 Lincoln's Secretary of War relieved Stone of the rank of General. Soon after, in a poignant letter to his commanding officer, General George Meade, Charles Stone requested that he be executed because of the shame he had brought upon himself and the military.

Meade refused to have Stone executed and Stone resigned from the Army five days later.

After the Civil War, Stone, an excellent engineer, left the United States and found employment as an important officer in the army of the King of Egypt. He held this position for 13 years until returning to the United States.

One of Stone's final jobs as engineer was the construction of the foundation and base of the Statue of Liberty, which still stands in New York Harbor. Upon his death in 1887, Stone was buried at West Point to rest in peace with other military officers who likewise had served their country with honor.

The letter that Stone had penned requesting his own execution is part of the Meade archive that includes other correspondence, photography, books and relics that relate to Philadelphia's own General George G. Meade. Meade commanded the Union Army at Gettysburg and many of the items relate to this important and historic battle.

Auctioneer's Note: Dave DeLong is a young, hardworking family man and equipment owner who started this trucking company with one road tractor and built it into a major presence in the municipal waste handling business. Mr. DeLong has commissioned Petrowsky Auctioneers, Inc. to sell at absolute auction all transportation equipment large and small in voluntary compliance with a mandate stemming from labor violations. Petrowsky Auctioneers, Inc. will attest from our visits to the DeLong operation that Dave is certainly guilty of overworking himself. This man not only oversaw the transportation company but crops 700 acres of land and raises his son and daughter with the help of his dedicated mother. In conversation Dave's major concern was that in the community he was being viewed a criminal and failure and some of the negativity would turn into ridicule towards his children. Working every day since you were 13 years old and building an exemplary fleet by 32 years old is hardly shameful or failure. It's America and drivers are free to work where they desire but owners work under guidelines set forth by departments which at times seem to enforce unsympathetic cessation order's like that of which prompts this Absolute Public Auction. Come help yourself to late model equipment that otherwise would not be under the hammer.

We're New Holland.

From the old Ford 30 Series tractor to the "built for you" New Holland TN, generations of farmers have relied on blue tractors to power their productivity. That legacy continues.

Today, New Holland sells more tractors worldwide than any other manufacturer. Why? Because New Holland and your New Holland dealer are specialists in keeping you productive.

New Holland hasn't forgotten what made the 30 Series – or the many trusted Ford tractors before it – performance leaders. So, we're working harder than ever to keep New Holland your brand of choice.

Get into New Holland blue and enjoy a whole new level of productivity. Visit your New Holland dealer today and ask about our full line of tractors from 18 to 450 hp.

HYTEST® SEEDS
Corn Menu
HT4602Bt/RR
Roundup Ready CORN
at 102-day maturity is field tested and proven in the East to consistently deliver high tonnage with exceptional silage quality. Versatile for silage, high moisture or grain production. Multi-year NCGA Champion. (Available as conventional HT4602 and HT4602Bt/LL.)
TNT-106RR
Roundup Ready CORN
is a NEW 106-day "Top Nutrition and Tonnage" silage hybrid delivering high yield and dry matter production. Combine exceptional forage quality potential with Roundup Ready® herbicide tolerance for low cost weed control. (Other Eastern TNT silage hybrids: TNT-100RR, TNT-95RR and TNT-85RR.)
HT7712
is the benchmark for eastern silage production in 112-day maturity. This dual-purpose hybrid consistently delivers high tonnage combined with higher forage quality even under the toughest of growing conditions.
HT7806RR
Roundup Ready CORN
at 115-day maturity delivers exceptional high yield and silage quality potential with the added benefit of low cost weed control utilizing the Roundup Ready® production system. Versatile choice for silage, high moisture or grain production. (Available double-stacked as HT7806Bt/RR, YieldGard® as HT7806Bt and conventional HT7806.)
I'll HAVE THE HYTEST.®

Dairy cows prefer "Hybrids Built to Feed" from HYTEST® Seeds. Delivering high yields, more energy and consistently higher whole plant digestibility, HYTEST hybrids can increase milk production in dairy herds.

For your one seed source offering the latest genetic technology in top performing, high quality forage and row crop products, contact your local HYTEST Dealer or call us.

Live Steam Tractor for Christmas!

Recapture the "Golden Age of Steam" with these unique high quality "Working Steam Tractors" - heat is converted into mechanical energy via water (steam). Boilers soon reach working pressure (about 10 lbs.), the engine will start, & you quickly experience the joys of steam in action. Constructed of all metal & brass. Has forward, reverse, & neutral control. Double-Acting brass cylinder & piston, safety valve, steam regulator, real working "Steam Whistle," mirror-polished brass boiler. Engine runs for 15 min. Fired by solid fuel supplied. 11" long x 5 3/4" wide x 7 1/4" high. Weight is 3 lbs. 5 oz.

- ☐ • WILESCO D405 Steam Tractor Reg. $269.95 Discount special for $229.95
- ☐ • Extra Box of Fuel $5.95

Handles your biggest spreading jobs

The New Holland Model 195 box spreader is up to your biggest spreading jobs.

- Capacity. The "195" takes on 410 bushels (440 cu. ft.) without flinching
- Strong construction. Corrosion-resistant steels last and last. And an HDPE floor means smooth unloading, even in cold weather
- Bonded Protection warranty. If the polyethylene floor fails or the sides rust, you'll get new ones FREE for 12 years
- Fast clean out... even with this big-capacity strong box
- Large tandem oscillating wheels... allow faster ground speeds in rough terrain, with less ground compaction

AGCO WHITE PLANTERS

You've picked the perfect seed –

FIELDSTAR READY

- Superior Seed Singulation
- ½ inch to 4-inch planting depth
- Improved Seed Meter Access
- Easy-to-View Seed Depth Indicator
- Quick Release Hoppers

INTRODUCING THE WHITE 8000 SERIES PLANTERS

You've done your research, prepared your field, and picked the perfect seed variety. Now plant that perfect row, with the 8000 Series planter from White With 49 models to match your needs, they're packed with features that save time and plant 4 to 31 rows of corn or soybeans with unmatched precision. The 8000 Series features an improved seed meter design for outstanding accuracy with a wider variety of seed sizes. And standard walking beam gauge wheels along with increased planting depth range of ½ inch to 4 inches give superior depth control over larger surface irregularities Select models feature "on-the-go" seed rate adjustment from your tractor cab. FlexFrame designs range from 30' to 60' for an "acre-eater" performance from one end of your field to the other

It's time to plant the perfect row. Stop by your White Planter Dealer today and get it right with WHITE.

Put Profits Back into Tillage Management With Krause's Profit-Till System

In 1983 Krause introduced the Profit Till System - based on the principles of soil tilth, crop residue management, plant food availability, and moisture management through proper and efficient tillage practices. 20 years later the Profit Till System still focuses on increased yields, reduced production costs and enhanced profit potential.

...Goal

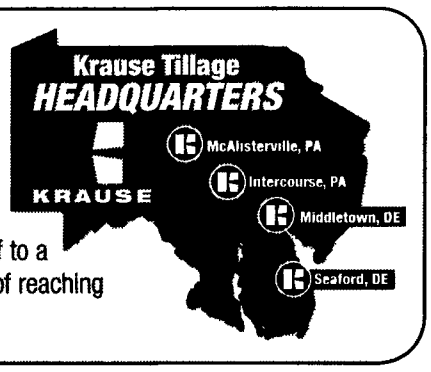
The Four Key Elements of Profit Till

CROP RESIDUE MANAGEMENT – Residue management protects soil from erosion by minimizing runoff. Compaction is also reduced by the protection provided by surface residue in heavy rainfall conditions.

SOIL TILTH – Good soil tilth is a determining factor of a plant's potential for root development and accordingly yield potential.

PLANT FOOD AVAILABILITY – A healthy, non-compacted soil environment promotes the growth of a well-developed root system, allowing more contact area with the soil and increased nutrient uptake.

SEED BED CONDITIONS – Plants that get off to a quick and healthy start have the best chance of reaching maximum yield potential.

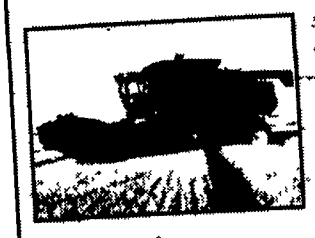


ONLY 6 WEEKS UNTIL THE 2003 PA FARM SHOW!

Did You Know:

...That the average yield for an acre of wheat in the United States in 1900 was 12.2 Bushels? In 2000, the average yield was 42 Bushels.*

Did You Know:



...that Case-IH has a new combine coming out for limited production in 2003? Come talk to us about the new AFX Combine at the Farm Show!

Do you know how many farms there were in the United States in 1935 compared to how many there are today?

See our ad next week for the answer!

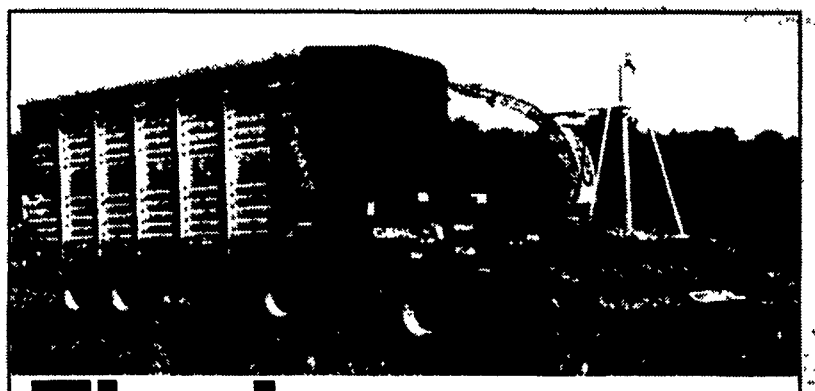
GEHL.

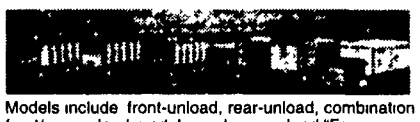
YOUR LIVESTOCK IMPLEMENT LINE



The Legacy Continues.

Gehl Forage Harvesters have been the leader in field performance, product innovation and customer value for more than 50 years. This legacy is continued with three models that are designed to meet the demands of every forage harvesting application. And with the addition of 11 configurations of forage boxes, Gehl is one of the most comprehensive suppliers of hay and forage equipment.

These heavy-duty forage boxes are constructed with corrosion-resistant aluminized steel to provide years of rugged use



Models include front-unload, rear-unload, combination front/rear unload models, and rear-unload "Forage Max' series with a truck-mounted version

CLAAS Country
Meeting all your harvesting needs!

Leola, PA 17540 Phone: (717) 656-2321

Located: 4 miles West of New Holland on Rt. 23, 1-1/2 miles Northwest of Leola on the No. Groffdale Rd., 1 mile on the right, opposite Groffdale Mennonite Church.

Rake up to a 20′ 6″ swath — CLAAS® LINER 650 TWIN ROTARY RAKE

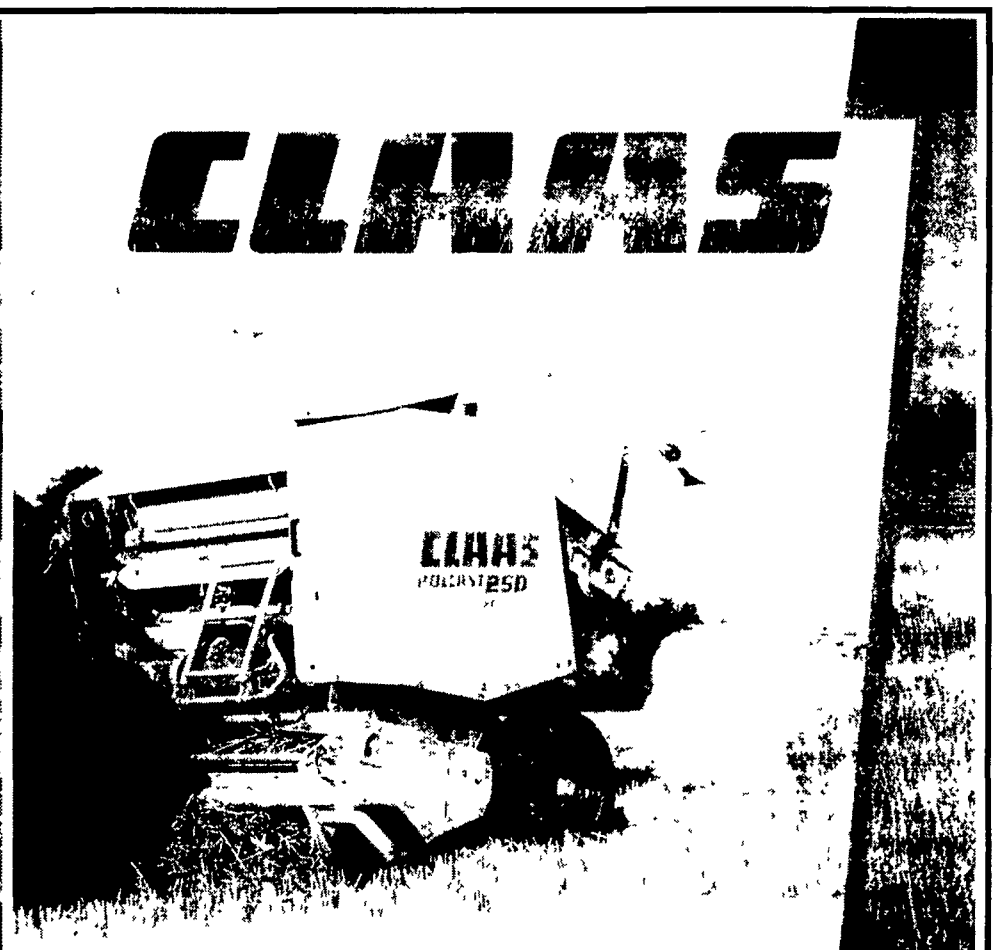
- Makes one windrow or two
- Enclosed tine control, permanently lubricated
- Tandem axle under carriage follows the ground contour
- Swing directly behind tractor for narrow transport



A superior round baler at home in any of your crops — ROLLANT® 250 ROTO CUT®

- All crop capable
- ROTO CUT system gives theoretical $2^{3}/_{4}$″ cut length
- MPS — CLAAS' hinged-roller Maximum Pessure System — forms a solid bale throughout
- Double-twine wrapping is standard; ROLLATEX® net wrapping is optional

Suzuki quadrunner a.t v's may be used by those aged 16 and older. Suzuki highly recommends that all a.t.v. riders take a training course. We'll even pay for it. For safety and training course information, see your dealer or call the SVA at 1-800-852-5344 ATV's can be hazardous to operate. For your safety, always wear a helmet, eye protection, and protective clothing Always avoid paved surfaces. Never ride on public roads. Never carry passengers, or engage in stunt riding. Riding and alcohol or other drugs do not mix. Avoid excessive speeds. Be extra careful on difficult terrain. Along with concerned conservationists everywhere, Suzuki urges you to "TREAD LIGHTLY" on public and private land Preserve your future riding opportunities by showing respect for the environment, local laws and the rights of others when you ride

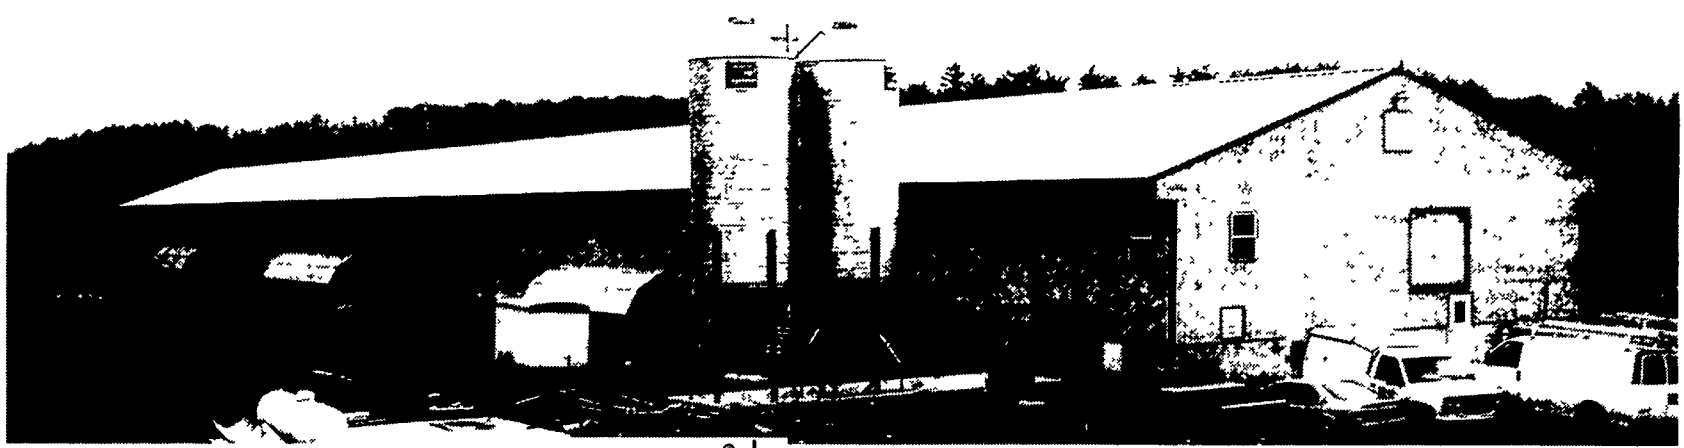
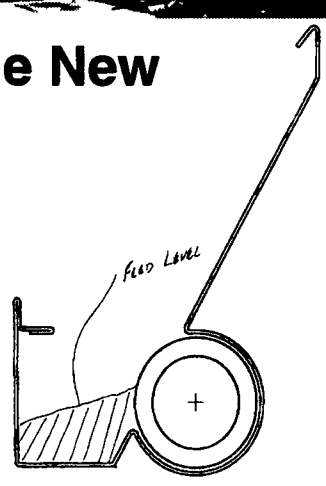
High Rise Pullet House

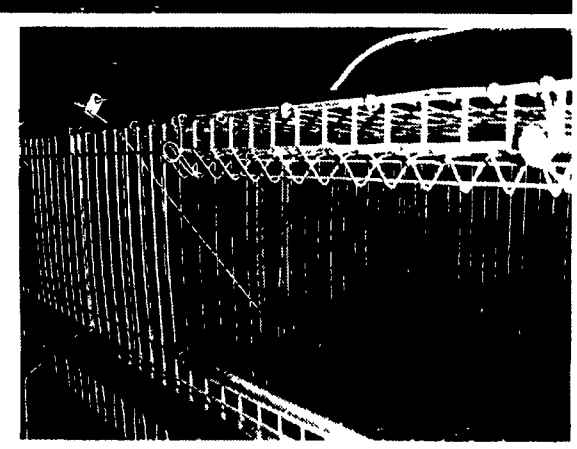


Introducing The New CHORE-TIME PG Pullet Feeder



- ✓ Innovative feed trough design minimizes feed waste
- ✓ Has more capacity to reduce run time
- ✓ Is very gentle on beaks since there is no chain hidden under the feed
- ✓ Reduces mortality and disease - feeder is installed entirely outside the cage so no peeps can get caught and no manure gets mixed with feed

Introducing THE NEW CHORE-TIME Brood Grow Nipple Drinking System



- ✓ Saves labor - All tiers are winched - Heavy duty winching system uses 1 3/4" pulleys
- ✓ Reduces maintenance because there are no hoses, glued on saddles or rubber O rings

Other Equipment Features:

- ✓ New inlet design with jet flow opening to improve winter ventilation
- ✓ Chore-Tronix Model 40 ventilation control ties together, fans, heaters and inlets
- ✓ Double dipped galvanized cage bottoms and heavy wire vertical cage fronts (same as our layer cage)
- ✓ L.B. White heaters with variable output

New Holland Honors Dealer For Excellence

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — For the third consecutive year, Charles S. Snyder Inc., Tamaqua, has been awarded the coveted President's Prestige Award by New Holland North America.

The 2002 award, the highest company honor that can be attained by a New Holland dealership, recognizes outstanding achievement in business management and customer satisfaction.

Award winners achieved the highest point levels in the New Holland Dealer Standards Program. The Dealer Standards include criteria for excellence in facilities, business management, sales, parts and service support, and customer satisfaction.

New Holland is division of CNH Global, N.V., a world leader in construction and agricultural equipment. New Holland sells and services an innovative and diverse line of agricultural equipment, including a full line of tractors as well as hay and forage equipment, harvesting and material handling equipment.

Sales, parts and service are provided to customers by New Holland dealers throughout the U.S. and Canada. There are more than 1,200 New Holland dealerships located throughout North America.

Symposium Focuses On Forages, Feed

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — From the start, it's important to sit down with agronomists and nutritionists at the "same table at the same time," according to a world-renowned dairy nutritionist.

Dr. Charlie Sniffen, president of the Miner Institute in New York, was the keynote speaker at the recent Forages and Feeding Symposium II, hosted by Binkley & Hurst Brothers Inc. and Keenan USA at the Lebanon Fairgrounds in Lebanon.

Sniffen brought more than 40 years experience in dairy science and nutrition studies to his presentation, "Making the Most of Farm Forages." The key: grow forages best suited to the farm and individual dairy production needs.

Last year's symposium focused on forage handling from field to feedbunk, according to Don Hoover, Binkley & Hurst Brothers Inc. representative. The second symposium brought together, through a cooperative effort, 19 machinery dealers and about 250 producers and other agri-industry representatives.

Four speakers focused on producing quality forages. They included Sniffen, in addition to Corwin Holtz, director of technical support for CPG Nutrients; Dr. Gabriella Varga, distinguished professor of animal science, Penn State; and Dr. Jeffrey D. Brose, DVM, technical service specialist, Monsanto.

The symposium theme was chosen because producers sometimes don't do a "real super job of forage handling," Hoober noted. This year, the focus has been on rationmaking and quality forge production and handling.

CFS Has New Beginning

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The CFS organization, consisting of Chambersburg Farm Service and Carlisle Farm Service, began a new era of operation Nov. 1.

CFS was organized by a group of farmers in Franklin County more than 30 years ago. The fundamental principal for founding the business was to assure themselves and fellow farmers that there would be a local dealership to provide quality parts and service for their equipment. Over time, the organization grew to have more than 50 employees and more than 60 shareholders.

Throughout the '70s, '80s, and '90s, CFS did well, achieving local, regional and national recognition for various achievements. However, in October 2001, CFS found itself in a position to seek Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection. Since that time, CFS has operated under the uncertain conditions that "bankruptcy" signifies.

On Oct. 31, the assets of CFS were bought by Carlisle Equipment Inc. Carlisle Equipment Inc. is a partnership of Aaron Hobble, former Carlisle store manager and J. Edward (Ed) Clouse, owner of Clouse Trucking, a milk hauling company.

While CFS has a new owner, it will retain its "CFS" identity. CFS will do business in Chambersburg as Chambersburg Farm Service at its 975 South Main Street location. In Carlisle, it will do business as Carlisle Farm Service at the 260 York Road location.

The CFS product line will include Case-IH, Case skidsteers (including the large XT models), Kuhn-Knight (formerly Knight), Agco tractors, Agco New Idea (both standard and commercial contracts), Agco Glencoe, Great Plains, Hardi, Bush Hog, UMC, BriMar trailers, Diller wagons, Becker Woodchuck buckets, Badger, Massey Ferguson Parts at Carlisle.

One of the most important aspects of a new beginning at CFS is its employees. CFS retained many of its experienced employees through the bankruptcy.

What's heat forming?

In metal roofing and siding it's the best way to go! Here is why. Everlast heats the paint very hot on their Everlast II product before they cut and form it into roofing and siding. Tests have proven that heating paint before cutting and bending prevents virtually all microscopic cracks in the paint. Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important. Normally manufacturers form and cut at room temperature. Unfortunately that cracks the paint causing early rust at formed bends and edges.

Metal Roofing & Siding

The Ultimate G-100 Process

"The Best"

1. Valspar 10S Finish Coat
2. Epoxy Primer
3. Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4. G-100 Zinc Coating
5. Full Hard Steel (80,000 min. yield)
6. Heat formed, less paint cracks

NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!

1. One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention.
2. Primer coat: promotes outstanding top coat adhesion.
3. Zinc phosphate pretreatment. This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider.
4. G-100 Galvanized: Most metal roofing has approx. 40% less galvanized under the paint. G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels.
5. Full Hard: Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc.
6. Heat formed: Metal is painted before ribs are formed. Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks. (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years).
7. Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L.F.
8. Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53.37 Per Square. $1.69 Per L.F.

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY
$48.32 PER SQUARE
$1.53 PER LINEAL FT.

Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?

Consider a Mueller pre-cooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

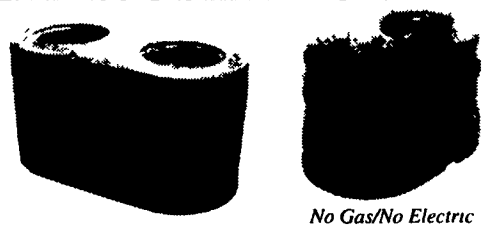
ENERGY FREE DRINKERS



No Gas/No Electric
MODEL 4014 14 Gallon
MODEL 2008 8 Gallon

- Since 1984, our customers tell us it's still the best and unique drinker you can buy today.
- Units have non-siphoning all plastic 3/4" water valve
- Units have 3/4 PVC shut off-and-on ball valve right behind water valve
- Drinker lid is designed w/no grooves on top that can encourage bacteria-germs that could seep inside unit.
- The Poly-Drinker are high density urethane foam insulated with drain plugs. Model #2008 has proven to work outside in our area with minimum -4 horses - and maximum - 50 head beef.

ALFALFA SEED $1.55/Lb.
from the Dakota's Trask Family Seeds

- Features grower-to-grower direct seed sales
- S D S U tested and researched
- Distributed from Parkesburg, PA
- $1 55/per lb in 60 lb bags
- Varieties S D Common, Vernal, and Rhyzoma
- Dakota alfalfas are dormancy rated at "2" and proven to excel in winter hardiness and production!
- Trask Seed is American grown and priced to reflect no corporate monopolies!

PA farmers have great hay crops with South Dakota alfalfa seed. Painterland Farms, Westfield, PA, John Painter said "The Trask's seed grew extremely well. We recommend it to anyone. It is real leafy and yielded as well as any of the high priced name brand seeds. It cost 40% as much. We planted 294 acres. We intend to plant more this spring. It was exceptionally winter hardy and resisted frost damage. We are very pleased."

Join the numerous farmers in the PA/NY area harvesting superb alfalfa from South Dakota seed

Lycoming Co. - Franklin Twp, Close to Millville & Lairdsville 96 acre dairy farm can be remodeled and improved to make a nice comfort stall barn There are 3 stave silo's, large bank barn, implement shed and several other out buildings There is a 95% remodeled farmhouse and the setting is very nice. The soils are Hartleton Silt Loam, Berks Silt Loam, and some Watson & Weikert Silt Loams. There is a tract of woodland and lots of water for a pond since the springs were flowing real nice after last weeks rains.

Centre County. This farm has level to gentle sloped fields that produce a good crop and is in high state of cultivation. The barn was used for dairy cows till 2001. There are 2 silo's, beef or heifer barn, horse stables, milkhouse with 1,000 gal bulk milk tank, repair shop, garage, corn barn/implement shed and semi-private There is a 2 family residence with no electric. Electric is available! This farm could easily be sub-divided into a farmette and 40+ acres and the balance used for grain farming - or put up another set of buildings and make 2 - 115 + acres each. No matter how you plan to use this farm, it is a good buy with fall or spring possession

SOMERSET DAIRIES BOOST PRODUCTION AND HERD HEALTH WITH PURINA EXT RATIONS

Dairy producers in Somerset County who have switched to a Purina EXT feeding programs are reporting higher production, healthier feet, fewer fresh cow problems, and improved reproductive performance.
Andy Krug, Purina representative for the area, said he visits his customers every two weeks to provide top-notch service. According to dairyman Ernie Hoffman, "Andy is always available if we have questions."

Hoffman Dairy, Somerset, has been in the family since 1916. Ernie Hoffman, along with sons Brad and Eric milk 150 Holsteins with a rolling herd average of over 23,000 pounds milking twice a day - compared to 18,000 pounds five years ago when they first switched to Purina.

"Bottom-bin sampling at the plant assures we get a consistent product, load after load," Brad said. Along with the jump in production, the Hoffmans are pleased with the herd's total performance on EXT Complete rations and homegrown forages.

"Overall body condition, score, reproduction and herd health has improved since switching to Purina," said Eric.

Maryland natives Ron and Elaine Gribble moved to Somerset in 1999 and have been feeding Purina for about a year and a half.

With the help of hired man Matt Paxton, the Gribbles milk about 200 Holsteins on Ron El Farm. They recorded test averages of 66 pounds per cow for the past year, without using BST.

Feed rations consist of corn silage, western hay, and Purina EXT Complete. With a cull rate of only 18 percent, the Gribbles like the effect Purina has had on their cows' to last. Since going with Purina, "Hoof health and fresh cow health have improved," Ron said.

Bill, second from right, now milks about 140 Holsteins with the help of herdsman Dwight Speigle, left, and sons Reuben and Nick. In February of 2001, the Hunsbergers switched to Purina and are happy with the results.

"We were told by the competition that hoof health would be a problem. Instead, the opposite happened and hoof health has improved," Bill said.

Rolling herd average is 23,350 pounds on Purina EXT rations, milking twice a day. The Hunsbergers are particularly pleased with the performance of fresh cows on Purina's pre-fresh concentrate.

"The pre-fresh program is working great," Bill said. "Cows get off to a good start. I don't know the last time I had a case of milk fever or ketosis."
